U.N. Assembly 'Peace Session' Draws To Close

Poland, Turkey Split Council Term

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—East-West compromises marked the session of the 1959 U.N. General Assembly which ended Sunday. Victor Andres Belaunde of Peru, president of the three-month-long 14th annual session, called it "the Assembly of Peace" just before he declared it closed at 4:11 a.m. The Soviet Union and the United States, during the session, drafted joint resolutions on disarmament talks outside and outer space talks inside the United Nations. They agreed that a disputed two-year term on the Security Council should be split between their respective candidates, Poland and Turkey. They used cold-war language in debates on Tibet and Hungary—issues first put before the session by third parties. But their relations generally reflected the conciliatory "spirit of Camp David," generated at September meetings of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and President Eisenhower in that Maryland mountain retreat. The 80 other nations in the Assembly generally went along with this trend in unanimous votes on issues they had split on in previous sessions. Khrushchev told the Assembly Sept. 18—three days after it opened—that "relations between states are becoming warmer." He proposed a plan for general and complete disarmament within four years. Loaded down with work, the Assembly ran a week and a day beyond its originally scheduled closing date. In its last hectic hours it: 1. Killed a Pakistani resolution, brainchild of the 29-nation Asian-African group, that would have urged talks to settle the Algerian rebellion against France on the basis of self determination. 2. Unanimously adopted a resolution of American-Soviet authorship setting up a permanent 24-nation U.N. Outer Space Committee that the Russians will not boycott as they did this year's temporary committee. Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov settled for nothing more than a promise from U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge to the Assembly that "we will not discriminate" against Eastern Europe in Security Council elections. His concession on this point matched concessions that Lodge had made when the two got together earlier on joint resolutions on disarmament and outer space.

Warden Foils Walla Walla Prison Break

Shoots, Critically Wounds 2 Felons, Third Surrenders

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (AP)—Three young convicts, armed with crude knives and makeshift fire bombs, made a bold, desperate, futile attempt to break out of the Washington State Prison Sunday. Two were shot and critically wounded by Warden Bob Rhay. The third threw down his weapons and surrendered. A prison officer seized by the inmates as they tried to force their way out of the main administration building was knifed in the back but not seriously wounded. Rhay fired point-blank three times at Gordon Miller, 19, of Mount Vernon, Wash., as the youth held a homemade knife at the throat of Gorman Barnett, a guard. Miller slashed Barnett as he fell. The warden said Richard D. Peterson, 20, of Pasco, Wash., came at him with upraised knife and was shot through the heart. The third convict, John J. Regan, 21, of Skagit County, Wash., threw down his knife and fire bomb and surrendered. Miller and Peterson were taken to a downtown hospital here in critical condition. The shot through Peterson's heart severed the main artery and he was not expected to live. Slew Father, Policeman Rhay said Peterson was a murderer who shot and killed his father and a Pasco policeman as a boy of 16 after the father had upbraided him for drinking beer. Miller is serving time for grand larceny and Regan for second-degree burglary. The warden said the three overpowered Barnett at a locked door leading to the administration building and took his keys. Their fire bombs were fashioned out of bottles of cleaning fluid with wicks through the caps.

Uranium Promoter Found Innocent

Uranium promoter John Milton Addison is shown in San Antonio, Tex., after being found innocent of charges of theft. Some of Addison's followers are shown behind him. Apartment Blast Kills 26 Germans DORTMUND, Germany (AP)—A predawn explosion destroyed two apartment houses here Sunday and police said 26 persons are believed to have perished. There were only eight survivors of the disaster, which reduced two four-story buildings to rubble and made the suburb of Aplerbeck look as if it had been hit by a bombing raid. Seven badly burned persons were in hospitals and one woman suffering from shock was with relatives. Three persons who escaped the burning buildings died later. Late Sunday night hundreds of rescue workers dug under the glare of searchlights in the still smoldering wreckage for bodies of 17 persons believed still buried. Police said there was no hope of finding anyone alive. Police blamed the 3:12 a.m. explosion on a leaking gas pipe but a director of the local gas works denied there were any defective pipes in the area.

Million Pay Ike Homage At India Rally

Declares Peace Not Possible Until All Mankind Is Free

By WILLIAM L. RYAN NEW DELHI (AP)—President Eisenhower—obviously elated by his Indian visit—departed for Iran Monday leaving Indians with the message that true peace will never be achieved until all mankind is free. Despite a pre-dawn departure, Eisenhower was in the gayest of moods. He called his visit here "the most interesting visit I've ever made to another country." Giganitic crowds turned out to greet Eisenhower on arrival Wednesday and he was welcomed warmly everywhere he went. More than a million Indians massed to pay homage to him Sunday night. Officials said there was no formal sendoff with bands and ceremonies because of the early hour. Indian President Rajendra Prasad accompanied Eisenhower to Palam Airport outside New Delhi. Prime Minister Nehru arrived five minutes earlier to be on hand for the farewell. In contrast to his triumphal entry into New Delhi last Wednesday—during which the U.S. President was cheered by possibly as many as two million Indians—Eisenhower's trip back to the airport in the chill pre-dawn was witnessed by few. Only peasants driving bullock carts were along the nine-mile route. Most of the city's residents were still asleep.

NATO Impasse May Stir Troop Recall Clamor

WASHINGTON (AP)—France's failure to share fully in NATO defenses may touch off congressional demands for return of some U. S. troops from abroad, Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) said Sunday. Mansfield said the contention of Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, that France is weakening the North Atlantic Alliance dangerously by not meeting its commitments comes as no surprise to members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Twining's complaint, the subject of hot controversy in Paris, obviously was aimed at President Charles de Gaulle's refusal to permit the basing of nuclear weapons on French soil under American terms and his disinclination to join in an integrated NATO air defense. As the Senate's assistant Democratic leader, Mansfield said it is his judgment that unless this impasse is solved there will follow in Congress a move to force Western European countries to become more responsible for their own defense. He said this might bring a reduction in U.S. troops stationed there. "Our five divisions in Western Europe are more or less symbolic, as far as defense is concerned," Mansfield said. "For that matter, NATO itself is only a symbol instead of the shield it was intended to be. I think two or three of our divisions would be as symbolic as five."

Fire Curbed; Film Stars' Homes Safe

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A major brush fire fanned by winds up to 60 miles an hour erupted in the exclusive Coldwater Canyon area Sunday, damaging at least two homes before it was controlled late Sunday afternoon. The blaze for a time threatened the homes of such stars as Frank Sinatra, Charlton Heston, Ginger Rogers, Peggy Lee and TV star Edd (Kookie) Burns. However, a sudden lessening of wind velocity aided 300 firemen in controlling the larger of two fires in the Santa Monica mountain residential area west of here. The fire burned to within 200 feet of Heston's new $150,000 home in Hidden Valley before it was stopped.

FTC Charges Claims For New Cigaretts False

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) lodged false claim charges Sunday against "Life" cigarettes, one of the new brands spawned by the cancer scare. The FTC accused Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp., Louisville, Ky., and its advertising agency, Ted Bates & Co., Inc., New York City, of violating the FTC act against false advertising. The manufacturer promptly denied the charges. The commission branded untrue the claim that Life cigarettes are "proved to give you the least tar or nicotine of all cigarettes." It also called untrue "representations" that the government endorses the cigarettes and has found them to be "lowest in tar, nicotine."

Strong Defense By NATO Vital, Herter Asserts

PARIS (AP)—Secretary of State Christian A. Herter said Sunday the defensive strength of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization is still of fundamental importance and pledged full U.S. support to the 15-nation alliance. Herter—arriving for the annual top-level NATO review beginning Tuesday and the following Western summit session beginning Saturday—added that the sense of international crisis appears to have lessened but warned against dropping NATO's guard. He said the NATO meeting this week, beside its usual military review, will discuss the international situation, including plans for a summit meeting. Reaching agreement is going to be a major task. One of the difficulties arises in NATO where a new trend in U.S. thinking is sending shivers down the spines of European politicians. Herter is expected to demand that the European Allies shoulder a greater share of the financial burden of Western defense and make greater efforts to meet military pledges. At present, only the United States and Canada are meeting their NATO commitments.

4,000 Cheer Rockefeller In St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—Some 4,000 people—including Democrats—gave Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York a rousing reception in St. Louis Sunday, and Missouri Republicans predicted he will get delegate support in the state. It was the biggest reception accorded Rockefeller in any of the cities he has visited on two swings around the country. The crowd jammed a huge hotel ballroom. They began gathering an hour before Rockefeller's scheduled appearance. "It's the biggest Republican turnout in 15 years," said Homer Cotton, coal executive and a party leader. Missouri Republicans are generally considered in favor of Vice President Richard M. Nixon as the party's nominee for president. Rockefeller flew to St. Louis after spending Saturday in South Bend, Ind. This is his second swing around the country and he says it will be his last. He reiterated Sunday he would like to make his announcement as to whether he will try for the Republican nomination before Jan. 6. That is the date when the New York State Legislature convenes. Rockefeller will go to Wisconsin this week for several speeches and apparently to find out for himself if the state is overwhelmingly for Nixon for president as contended by its GOP chairman, Claude Jasper of Madison, Wisconsin Republican chairman, said at a GOP conference in Chicago last week that the state was "overwhelmingly for Nixon" but that the party organization would not work for the vice president or any other candidate.

Scientist Believes Report Four Soviets Perished In Space

NUERNBERG, Germany (AP)—German space scientist Prof. Hermann Oberth said Sunday he believes published reports that four Soviet astronauts have perished in attempts to put man into space. "I know from American intelligence reports that one attempt at the end of 1957 or beginning of 1958 failed," Oberth said. "I believe the Russians made several other attempts." He was commenting on reports published by the Italian news agency, Continental, that reliable informants in Prague said the Soviet Union has made four vain attempts to get man—in one case a woman—into space. In Washington, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration had no comment on the report. A spokesman referred to statements by the Soviet space chief, Leonid I. Sedov, when he was here recently that the Soviet Union has no man-in-space program under way now. State Department officials also declined to comment. Oberth, 66, a former member of the U.S. Army's missile program at Huntsville, Ala., said he knew from other American intelligence reports that the Russians use a missile base near the Elbrus Mountains close to the Iranian border as the launching site for human space rockets. The Russians have experimented for two years with manned rockets but have not used first-line test pilots in space ships yet, said Oberth. He was vague on details of Soviet space flight attempts, but said he was convinced the Russians had rockets with sufficient thrust to hurdle manned space vehicles into orbit. British newspapers carried the Continental story Sunday. The agency said it got its information from "most reliable sources" in Prague, but added there was no confirmation by official sources.

Boat Upsets, Six Drown

BAINBRIDGE, Ga., (UPI)—Six persons, an adult and five children ranging in age from 3 to 13, drowned here Sunday when their small boat overturned in the swift waters of the Flint River. Police identified the victims as Curtis Spruiell; his four small children—Mildred, 10; Diane, 7; Fay, 4; and Jimmy, 3; and Jerry Pearson, 13. The older boy's mother, Mrs. James Pearson, was also in the boat at the time of the accident but managed to hang on to the side until rescued. She was taken to a local hospital. James Pearson, Jerry's father, was standing on the river bank watching the seven persons in the 10-foot boat fish and ran for help when the boat overturned. Observers said the seven were crowded in the boat without life jackets. Spruiell stood up to crank the motor and the boat overturned in the swirling current.

Six Lose Lives In Auto Crash

THALIA, Tex. (UPI)—A pickup truck loaded with hunters and their dogs and an automobile filled with a group returning from a funeral crashed head-on near Thalia Sunday killing five persons. Five hunting dogs also died in the collision. Four of the victims, including a teen-ager, were from Ardmore, Okla. They had been to Albuquerque, N.M., for the funeral of the husband of one of the women killed Sunday. The fifth victim was Joe Pybus, 59, a Vernon, Tex., cattleman. Highway Patrolman H. D. Capps said investigation showed one of the vehicles swerved across the center line of the highway and collided head-on with the other.

Man Divides $1,500,000 In Stock Among Employees

SAN CARLOS, Calif. (AP)—Kurt G. Appert always wanted to do something for the men who helped build his electronic shop into a 30-million-dollar-a-year industry. So what Appert did was this. After General Telephone & Electronics Co. bought out his firm this fall and he retired from active management at 48, Appert gave 350 associates and employees 1½ million dollars worth of the stock General Telephone paid him in the deal. Giving away that much turned out to be quite a problem, Appert said Sunday. "How is it possible to deal 100 per cent fairly with people you respect and like?" he asked. "I took several weeks just thinking about it. In the end I had to rely on how well I knew the people and their contributions to the company." Appert said the secret of suc-

Biggest Crowd Ike Ever Faced

Acres of solidly packed humanity, stretching as far as the eye could see, paid the final mass tribute to the President. Nehru said it was the greatest civic reception he ever has seen at the sprawling Ram Lila Park between Old and New Delhi. It was the largest crowd Eisenhower ever has faced. "We believe that freedom will be won everywhere," Eisenhower told the crowd. "The hunger for it is far too deep-seated to be put off by a contrived definition or a man-made philosophy." After his speech, Eisenhower and Nehru met for a last talk over the dinner table, then issued a communique expressing deep satisfaction at friendly U. S.-Indian relations. It said Nehru reviewed Asia's problems for Eisenhower. The communique did not mention Red China's pressure at the Indian border but James C. Hagerty, Eisenhower's press secretary, said the matter of Communist China was discussed. U. S. military support in the event of a Chinese attack was not discussed, Hagerty said, but the President expressed hope the dispute could be settled.

President Gazes In Awe At Beautiful Taj Mahal

AGRA, India (AP)—President Eisenhower fulfilled a lifelong ambition Sunday as he gazed in awe at India's fabled Taj Mahal—"this temple of love," he called it. "A lovely, lovely thing," the President told his guide, Prime Minister Nehru. "I read about this when I was a very little boy in Kansas and I have always dreamed of seeing it. It is one of the things I have looked forward to on this trip more than anything else. It's much more wonderful than I ever thought it would be." The grief-stricken Mogul Emperor Shah Jahan built the exquisitely beautiful Taj Mahal 300 years ago as a memorial to his young empress, who died giving birth to her 14th child. About 100,000 Indians jammed the approaches to the shrine and cheered Eisenhower all along the route from Agra airport. He smiled and waved from the open car. His head was dotted with bright yellow petals from a deluge of flowers tossed by exuberant Indians. Eisenhower stopped about 500 feet from the Taj Mahal to study its reflection in a pool—a scene familiar to tourists. The President asked Nehru whether the slim, graceful columns at each of the four corners were watch towers. "No," Nehru replied, "they are minarets, and in my judgment the Taj would have been even more beautiful without the towers." "Well, I can't quarrel with the architect who built this beautiful thing," remarked Eisenhower, an amateur artist.

Prominent Banker, Democrat Slain

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—George F. Rock, 52, Democratic national committee member from Colorado and prominent Denver banker, was robbed and apparently beaten to death early Sunday. His body was found in a small park in a residential section of northeast Denver. He had been beaten about the face. Pockets of Rock's clothing were turned inside out. His empty wallet was found nearby. Detective Chief Walter Nelson took charge of the investigation and assigned 10 teams of detectives to the case. They began a check of about two dozen known police characters with a method of operation similar to that used in Rock's death. Rebels Kill 10 Soldiers ALGIERS (AP)—Ten French soldiers were killed Saturday night when Algerian Nationalist rebels ambushed a convoy escorting workmen near Port Tizirt, east of Algiers. Three native workmen and one European also were killed in the ambush. Army sources said the convoy was moving through a difficult mountain terrain largely controlled by the Nationalists.

U.N. Assembly 'Peace Session' Draws To Close

Poland, Turkey Split Council Term

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—East-West compromises marked the session of the 1959 U.N. General Assembly which ended Sunday.

Victor Andres Belaunde of Peru, president of the three-month-long 14th annual session, called it "the Assembly of Peace" just before he declared it closed at 4:11 a.m.

The Soviet Union and the United States, during the session, drafted joint resolutions on disarmament talks outside and outer space talks inside the United Nations.

They agreed that a disputed two-year term on the Security Council should be split between their respective candidates, Poland and Turkey.

They used cold-war language in debates on Tibet and Hungary—isues first put before the session by third parties. But their relations generally reflected the conciliatory "spirit of Camp David," generated at September meetings of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and President Eisenhower at that Maryland mountain retreat.

The 80 other nations in the Assembly generally went along with this trend in unanimous votes on issues they had split on in previous sessions.

Khrushchev told the Assembly Sept. 18—three days after it opened—that "relations between states are becoming warmer." He proposed a plan for general and complete disarmament within four years.

Loaded down with work, the Assembly ran a week and a day beyond its originally scheduled closing date. In its last hectic hours it:

1. Killed a Pakistani resolution, brainchild of the 29-nation Asian-African group, that would have urged talks to settle the Algerian rebellion against France on the basis of self determination.
2. Unanimously adopted a resolution of American-Soviet authorship setting up a permanent 24-nation U.N. Outer Space Committee that the Russians will not boycott as they did this year's temporary committee.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov settled for nothing more than a promise from U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge to the Assembly that "we will not discriminate" against Eastern Europe in Security Council elections.

His concession on this point matched concessions that Lodge had made when the two got together earlier on joint resolutions on disarmament and outer space.

Warden Foils Walla Walla Prison Break

Shoots, Critically Wounds 2 Felons, Third Surrenders

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (AP)—Three young convicts, armed with crude knives and makeshift fire bombs, made a bold, desperate, futile attempt to break out of the Washington State Prison Sunday.

Two were shot and critically wounded by Warden Bob Rhay. The third threw down his weapons and surrendered.

A prison officer seized by the inmates as they tried to force their way out of the main administration building was knifed in the back but not seriously wounded.

Guard Slashed

Rhay fired point-blank three times at Gordon Miller, 19, of Mount Vernon, Wash., as the youth held a homemade knife at the throat of Gorman Barnett, a guard. Miller slashed Barnett as he fell.

The warden said Richard D. Peterson, 20, of Pasco, Wash., came at him with upraised knife and was shot through the heart. The third convict, John J. Regan, 21, of Skagit County, Wash., threw down his knife and fire bomb and surrendered.

Miller and Peterson were taken to a downtown hospital here in critical condition. The shot through Peterson's heart severed the main artery and he was not expected to live.

Slew Father, Policeman

Rhay said Peterson was a murderer who shot and killed his father and a Pasco policeman as a boy of 16 after the father had upbraided him for drinking beer.

Miller is serving time for grand larceny and Regan for second-degree burglary.

The warden said the three overpowered Barnett at a locked door leading to the administration building and took his keys. Their fire bombs were fashioned out of bottles of cleaning fluid with wicks through the caps.

Brown & Williamson defended its ads in a statement that termed them "a proper and acceptable advertising technique." The firm denied that its advertising "implies government sanction."

Arthur S. Flemming, secretary of health, education and welfare, said on a television program Sunday that the Food and Drug Administration does not have the authority to take cigarettes off the market, in spite of reports that smoking may cause cancer.

Flemming said (on College News Conference—ABC) that the situation between additives in food and cigarettes is different. "No one is required by the necessity of life to purchase cigarettes," he said, whereas a consumer may not be aware of the "danger" in a standard food product.

"Instead of Europe, we in the United States have become the primary target if any intercontinental missiles are launched," he said. "Western Europe could well become the prize, rather than the primary target, for any war that comes now."

Million Pay Ike Homage At India Rally

Declares Peace Not Possible Until All Mankind Is Free

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
NEW DELHI (AP)—President Eisenhower—obviously elated by his Indian visit—departed for Iran Monday leaving Indians with the message that true peace will never be achieved until all mankind is free.

Despite a pre-dawn departure, Eisenhower was in the gayest of moods. He called his visit here "the most interesting visit I've ever made to another country."

Gigantic crowds turned out to greet Eisenhower on arrival Wednesday and he was welcomed warmly everywhere he went. More than a million Indians massed to pay homage to him Sunday night.

Officials said there was no formal sendoff with bands and ceremonies because of the early hour. Indian President Rajendra Prasad accompanied Eisenhower to Palam Airport outside New Delhi. Prime Minister Nehru arrived five minutes earlier to be on hand for the farewell.

In contrast to his triumphal entry into New Delhi last Wednesday—during which the U.S. President was cheered by possibly as many as two million Indians—Eisenhower's trip back to the airport in the chill pre-dawn was witnessed by few. Only peasants driving bullock carts were along the nine-mile route.

Most of the city's residents were still asleep.

Ike In High Spirits

The temperature was in the high 50s—wintry for India.

Eisenhower, in enthusiastic spirits at the informal airport sendoff, told Nehru: "Frankly, I think I've learned a little more here than I ever would have in a country in such a short time."

The President chatted briefly with a number of officials who helped make arrangements for his 4½ day stay in India.

He thanked Prasad and others, including Indian Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon. An Indian presidential aide gave Eisenhower a silver-framed picture of the American President at the Taj Mahal. Eisenhower visited the shrine Sunday.

Thirteen minutes after arrival, following a round of handshakes, Eisenhower boarded his big orange-nosed plane for the trip to Tehran, capital of Iran.

In the windup of his public appearances Sunday night, another huge throng heard Eisenhower's message on peace and freedom for mankind.

At the giant gathering Nehru told Eisenhower he was leaving with "a piece of our heart."

Biggest Crowd Ike Ever Faced

Acres of solidly packed humanity, stretching as far as the eye could see, paid the final mass tribute to the President. Nehru said it was the greatest civic reception he ever has seen at the sprawling Ram Lila Park between Old and New Delhi. It was the largest crowd Eisenhower ever has faced.

"We believe that freedom will be won everywhere," Eisenhower told the crowd. "The hunger for it is far too deep-seated to be put off by a contrived definition or a man-made philosophy."

After his speech, Eisenhower and Nehru met for a last talk over the dinner table, then issued a communique expressing deep satisfaction at friendly U. S.-Indian relations.

It said Nehru reviewed Asia's problems for Eisenhower. The communique did not mention Red China's pressure at the Indian border but James C. Hagerty, Eisenhower's press secretary, said the matter of Communist China was discussed. U. S. military support in the event of a Chinese attack was not discussed, Hagerty said, but the President expressed hope the dispute could be settled.

Baltimore Hospital's "Operation Transfer" Goes Off Without Hitch

BALTIMORE (AP) — There apparently was confusion at Sinai Hospital Sunday morning.

Nurses, doctors, stretcher-bearers and policemen milled about the lobby. Upstairs, white uniformed attendants kept contact by walkie-talkie with other workers lined up on a side street next to 38 ambulances.

Eighty-two patients — most of them critically ill — and 26 newborn babies were brought down the elevators one at a time. The bed-ridden patients, their cots tagged with a code number, were wheeled to ambulances with near perfect timing and a caravan rolled off under motorcycle police escort.

Behind the bustling activity was a purposeful time-table. Sinai moved from its old grey stone structure in a teeming neighborhood next to Johns Hopkins Hospital to a gleaming new, 20-million dollar layout sprawling over 50 acres in northwest Baltimore.

For two weeks, patients less seriously ill and most equipment had been moved to prepare for Sunday's important transfer. The seven-mile, two-and-a-half hour move in the chilly, cloudy weather went off without a hitch.

"We were very fortunate," said Milton W. Hamilt, assistant director of the hospital. "Everything went excellently."

He said the first patient transferred was a baby who was doing poorly because it had a blood type incompatible with that of its mother. A doctor accompanied the infant, the same as other more serious cases were handled. There also was a nurse in each vehicle.

Helping to expedite the task were 38 ambulances of the Maryland State Ambulance and Rescue Assn., their drivers and attendants. Four rescue trucks with special equipment accompanied the ambulances, along with 10 police motorcycles, 10 Red Cross station wagons and 10 radio cars to coordinate plans between the two sites.

The brigade of workers included 1,000 staff employees plus 60 to 70 doctors, and 250 volunteer workers.

There are nine buildings on the 50-acre tract which make up the 483-bed installation. They were built of red brick with white marble trim.

The hospital is located in an outlying section of the city and from any window a patient can look out upon lawn, trees and sky.

Rain, Snow Pelt East And West

By The Associated Press

The East and West were pelted by snow and rain Sunday while the nation's mid-section had a dry, cold respite.

The wet weather stormed into New England via the Ohio Valley and Pennsylvania, then spread out along the Atlantic Coast south to New York City.

In western Pennsylvania, rain-swollen French Creek spilled out of its banks inundating parts of a dozen roads. The arrival of cooler weather, however, removed any threat of any additional flooding, western Utah smeared snow from western Montana to central Nevada. Gusty winds blew some of it southward over the plateau region into southern California.

A Utah man, his wife and a son were killed and another son critically injured when their car skidded on snow-covered U.S. 91 in central Utah and collided with a truck.

Snow flurries fell over the mountains of northern Arizona and in sections of Texas. Nebraska's three-man Japanese expedition Panhandle, southwest portions of that tried it says 23,440-foot-high South Dakota and the central high Guarrishankar peak in the Himalayas region braced for heavy blizzards.

The Kansas City Weather Bureau forecast that snow would accumulate to four inches or more by Monday forenoon with winds of 35-45 m.p.h.

Nation's Leaders 'Desert' Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's capital was unusually devoid of its top leaders this weekend.

President Eisenhower was in India on his 11-nation tour, which will keep him out of the country until Dec. 22.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon went to Albany, Ga., for some quail shooting but was due back late Sunday night.

In Paris for the NATO meetings and the Western summit session later this month are Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and Undersecretary Douglas Dillon. Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson, Secretary of Defense Thomas S. Gates Jr., and Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

With Congress in recess, most members of the House and Senate also were out of town.

But the head man still was Eisenhower—there is no provision for an "acting president."

Peak Wins Again

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — A Kathmandu's three-man Japanese expedition Panhandle, southwest portions of that tried it says 23,440-foot-high South Dakota and the central high Guarrishankar peak in the Himalayas region braced for heavy blizzards.

The expedition returned here after an unsuccessful three-month attempt to scale the summit, where legend says Shiva, the destroyer by Monday forenoon with winds of 35-45 m.p.h.

Paraguay Claim Revolt Crushed Is Contradicted

POSADAS, Argentina, (UPI) — A rebellion launched Saturday against the government of Paraguayan strongman Gen. Alfredo Stroessner appeared to be in full swing Sunday night despite repeated official claims of "complete victory."

The claims were contradicted by Paraguay's military radio which still is broadcasting news of loyal troop engagements with insurgents along the Argentine border.

At the same time, reports from Asuncion said inhabitants of the Paraguayan capital had been urged to stock up on food and other necessities.

Observers here believed the appeal indicated that the Stroessner regime was preparing for a lengthy guerrilla war with rebel units which survived the first hammer blows of the government counter-attack and were continuing the fight in farm country southeast of the capital.

Asuncion itself, however, was reported calm, although the government started a roundup of known liberal and Communist leaders. Many persons were understood to have been taken into custody.

One of the fiercest engagements of the rebellion came Sunday when rebels tried to capture a naval transport in a bloody ship-board battle. They finally were fought off.

Both the Stroessner government in Asuncion and rebel spokesmen in Posadas, an Argentine frontier city, claimed victories in the two-day revolt. Fresh government troops were being airlifted to the main battle area at Encarnacion, Paraguay. Rebel spokesmen said two more columns of 700 men had crossed the border and that 1,000 rebels were advancing in Paraguayan territory.

Village Gives Ike Highest Form Of Hindu Welcome

Paint Applied To President's Forehead

LAROMDA, India (AP) — The oldest woman in this village did not know his name or where he came from but she called him "mahatma (great soul) from across the seas."

Eighty-year-old Bibibi was in the crowd of 5,000—five times the population of this village—when President Eisenhower came through the flower-decked main gate.

Elderly women applied vermilion to the foreheads of the visitor and his escort, Prime Minister Nehru. This is the highest form of Hindu welcome. The paint is to ward off evil eyes and evil spirits.

Motorist Faces Murder Charge In Hit-Run Death

By The Associated Press

One man has been charged with murder as the result of a hit-run fatality as the death toll on Maryland highways continued to mount over the weekend.

State Police at Bel Air said that Clyde M. Pritt, 29, of Madonna, was being held pending a preliminary hearing on the murder count after an intensive investigation in the death of James E. Hamm, 28, a Harford County farmhand and father of six children.

Hamm's death was one of five resulting from recent traffic accidents. It increased the year's total to 493 against 463 a year ago.

Another motorist, Franklin Hughes, 51, of Vienna, had a heart

D.C. Motorists Must Ante Up To Get Tags

WASHINGTON (AP) — Approximately 7,000 District of Columbia motorists may be denied license tags next year unless they pay collateral on back traffic tickets, officials estimate.

Walter F. Bramhall, municipal court clerk, is compiling a list of those who have ignored warning notices and warrants. When they attempt to purchase tags, they will be ordered to pay up.

Officials said no one would get his tags without first settling accounts.

The system was used for the first time last year, netting the District $30,000.

Used Car Purchase Safeguards Asked

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Corporation Commissioner Counsel's office here has been asked to draft legislation designed to protect the public in the purchase of used cars in Washington.

He said the Corporation Commission Counsel's office assured him that city officials were working on the legislation.

Tawes Will Get State Financial Report Today

BALTIMORE (AP)—Gov. Tawes will be handed Monday a rundown of the state's financial condition which is expected to include official tidings of a 20 million dollar surplus when the fiscal year ends next July.

The Board of Revenue Estimates will supply the report in presenting the information on which the governor will base the budget to be given the 1960 General Assembly in February.

The board expects revenue to jump to 225 million dollars in the next fiscal year, a gain of 20 million over the current income. But this will be matched by a normal budget growth predicted by a Legislative Council committee.

The committee warned that state revenue will lag behind the budget within the next few years if new sources of income aren't uncovered.

Tawes has endorsed a 7½ million dollar salary increase for teachers and state employees, and will use much of the anticipated surplus to pay the bill.

CLEMENTS, Md. (AP) — State Police Sgt. E. R. Griffith reported that John Nelson, 47, of Clements, shot his wife to death and then killed himself Saturday night.

Griffith said Mrs. Rachel Ann Nelson, 23, was killed by a single blast of a double barreled shotgun as she walked out of a tavern at Avenue, Md., near Clements, St. Marys County.

Fifteen minutes later Nelson killed himself, Griffith said, as he sat in the front seat of his parked car on Maryland 470 three miles east of Avenue.

Tot Improves After Lung Surgery

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI)—Linda Redman, 3-year-old cystic fibrosis victim from Jamestown, N.Y., Sunday was reported "doing very well" at Johns Hopkins Hospital, where she underwent a three-hour lung operation Thursday.

In the operation, a small, upper portion of her right lung, made useless by the disease, was removed. The surgery was not intended to cure the disease, which exists from birth in those afflicted, but rather to aid the child's general health.

Mrs. Roy Redman, mother of the patient, said her daughter was doing "much better than expected."

Mrs. Redman said that "Linda smiled yesterday for the first time" since the operation.

Motorist Faces Murder Charge In Hit-Run Death

By The Associated Press

One man has been charged with murder as the result of a hit-run fatality as the death toll on Maryland highways continued to mount over the weekend.

State Police at Bel Air said that Clyde M. Pritt, 29, of Madonna, was being held pending a preliminary hearing on the murder count after an intensive investigation in the death of James E. Hamm, 28, a Harford County farmhand and father of six children.

Hamm's death was one of five resulting from recent traffic accidents. It increased the year's total to 493 against 463 a year ago.

Another motorist, Franklin Hughes, 51, of Vienna, had a heart attack Saturday night as he drove west on U. S. 50 near Mardella and was dead before help reached him, State Police at Salisbury reported.

State Police said the murder charge was lodged against Pritt after a conference with State's Attorney Harry E. Dwyer of Harford County. A hearing date has not been set.

Officials explained the unusual action was taken because of the circumstances of the accidents. They declined to disclose at this time the complete details.

Trooper I.C. R. W. George had reported that Hamm's body was found Saturday morning 15 feet from the edge of Maryland 146 near Taylor, and said he may have been hit late Friday night.

George said Hamm apparently had been walking north along the road, facing traffic. There were indications he was hit from behind by a northbound car that crossed the white dividing line and sped away, George added.

The other victims: Wade H. Gowl, 82, of Baltimore, struck and killed Saturday while crossing a road in the Edgemere section.

David Kaplan, 65, of Baltimore, who died early Saturday of injuries suffered when struck by a car Friday night.

Lester W. Hornbaker, 36, of Leistersburg, who died in a Harford hospital of injuries suffered Friday night when his car hit a tree.

David A. Baker, 35, also of Leistersburg, who died in the same hospital Saturday of injuries suffered in an accident last Nov. 21.

Some authorities believe the Pacific is the oldest ocean and the Atlantic the youngest.

Tawes Will Get State Financial Report Today

BALTIMORE (AP)—Gov. Tawes will be handed Monday a rundown of the state's financial condition which is expected to include official tidings of a 20 million dollar surplus when the fiscal year ends next July.

The Board of Revenue Estimates will supply the report in presenting the information on which the governor will base the budget to be given the 1960 General Assembly in February.

The board expects revenue to jump to 225 million dollars in the next fiscal year, a gain of 20 million over the current income. But this will be matched by a normal budget growth predicted by a Legislative Council committee.

The committee warned that state revenue will lag behind the budget within the next few years if new sources of income aren't uncovered.

Tawes has endorsed a 7½ million dollar salary increase for teachers and state employees, and will use much of the anticipated surplus to pay the bill.

Former Councilman Dies At Cambridge

CAMBRIDGE (AP)—Daniel H. Wright Jr., former city councilman, died here Saturday night from a paralytic stroke. He was 49.

Wright had been assessor of Dorchester County, and recently held a position with the Employment Security Department here.

Survivors include his widow, a daughter, three sisters and three brothers.

LIVED IN CAR—Mrs. Delores Zamojcin, 30, and her daughters, Adele (left), 7, and Carmen, 6, are shown at the police station in Grosse Pointe Shores, Mich., after spending the night there. Police discovered the three had lived in their car for more than two months. Mrs. Zamojcin said a court had ordered her divorced husband to pay her $45 a week, but he disappeared last summer. Police are seeking aid for them from charitable groups.

Lake Victoria, in East Africa, is almost four thousand feet above sea level and is the source of the Nile River.

D.C. Motorists Must Ante Up To Get Tags

WASHINGTON (AP)—Approximately 7,000 District of Columbia motorists may be denied license tags next year unless they pay collateral on back traffic tickets, officials estimate.

Walter F. Bramhall, municipal court clerk, is compiling a list of those who have ignored warning notices and warrants. When they attempt to purchase tags, they will be ordered to pay up.

Officials said no one would get his tags without first settling accounts.

The system was used for the first time last year, netting the District $30,000.

Used Car Purchase Safeguards Asked

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Corporation Commissioner Counsel's office here has been asked to draft legislation designed to protect the public in the purchase of used cars in Washington.

Chairman John L. McMillan (D-SC) of the House District Committee said Saturday he had requested that the draft be ready when Congress returns in January. He said the Corporation Commission Counsel's office assured him that city officials were working on the legislation.

Three used car dealers have brought suit in District Court for renewal of their licenses to sell cars in Washington.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—Helena Rubenall selected and ready to go. Stein, one of the 10 richest women in the world and one of the co-stars in "Peyton Place" with Lana, will play her husband. Ross Hunter, previously rejected offers to film her life story. Now, she'll be seen in a movie.

Another new casting is Michael O'Shea, who hasn't been in a picture since he made one with Judy Holiday several years ago. Mike Merle Oberon—but I can tell the head of the House of Rubenstein man, who loves the horses and she has little chance of getting Merle. Only a month ago, before Merle returned to Mexico for the holidays with her millionaire husband, Bruno Pagliai, and their children, she told me: "Neither the screen nor TV hold any lure for me."

Merle is very happy being the feminine head of the house of Pagliai. "Actresses should retire after a certain age and let the public keep its pleasant memories of her youth," she laughed, disregarding that she looks as glamorous today as when she was a star.

world using a spyglass to watch all their actions. I am hoping very hard that Desi and Lucy will solve their difficulties. It will mean so much to everyone who feel they are their friends because of their many years on TV.

Jim Hill, husband of Rita Hayworth and a partner in the former Hecht-Hill-Lancaster producing company, looks as though a half dozen thugs had worked him over in a dark alley.

But Burt Lancaster can explain exactly how it happened. He and Jim were in San Francisco for a preview of "The Unforgiven." The next morning the boys hired a taxi to take them to a golf course. On the way the driver suddenly jammed on the brakes and Jim was thrown through the partition. His right eye is swollen out of all proportion and a tooth pushed into the roof of his mouth, which required surgery.

P.S.: "The Unforgiven" is rumored as one of John Huston's best.

Gene Barry, his wife and children, just THOUGHT they were going to spend Christmas in Florida. Plans for the family to celebrate Gene's first time off in five years, including his Bat Masterson TV show, were cancelled when Gene was contacted to co-host the Chevy show of Dec. 27. Dinah Shore wants to rest the holiday week.

Once again Gene's sidekick on the Chevy show will be Craig (Peter Gunn) Stevens with whom he registered so effectively a few weeks ago. Both Barry and Stevens are rapidly making names for themselves as song and dance men—a strange fate for Peter Gunn and Bat Masterson.

WINE-TASTERS

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — During the filming of location scenes for Walt Disney's "Pollyanna" in Napa Valley, actors Adolphe Menjou and Ed Dearing were invited to visit one of the wineries for which the area is famous.

When they arrived, they discovered the yearly wine tasting ceremonies were underway and they were invited to take part. Invitation accepted.

Until the end of the 17th century, poor people in England were buried without coffins, wrapped in cloth or even just covered with flowers.

Stein, one of the 10 richest women in the world and one of the cos-in-the-world of the U.S.A., has play her husband, Ross Hunter, previously rejected offers to film had his eye on Lloyd and has her life story. Now, she'll be negotiating with him for several weeks.

Another new casting is Michael O'Shea, who hasn't been in a picture since he made one with Judy Holliday several years ago. Mike Merle Oberon—but I can tell he plays Lana's chauffeur, an Irish head of the House of Rubenstein man, who loves the horses and has a little change of getting fast cars. It's a good character Merle. Only a month ago, before part and he should be very good Merle returned to Mexico for the holidays with her millionaire husband, Bruno Pagliai, and their children, she told me: "Neither the screen nor TV hold any lure for me."

Merle is very happy being the feminine head of the house of Pagliai. "Actresses should retire after a certain age and let the public keep its pleasant memories of her youth," she laughed, dis regarding that she looks as glam orous today as when she was a star.

world using a spyglass to watch all their actions. I am hoping very hard that Desi and Lucy will solve their difficulties. It will mean so much to everyone who feel they are their friends because of their many years on TV.

Jim Hill, husband of Rita Hayworth and a partner in the former Hecht-Hill-Lancaster production company, looks as though a half dozen thugs had worked him over in a dark alley.

But Burt Lancaster can explain exactly how it happened. He and Jim were in San Francisco for a preview of "The Unforgiven." The next morning the boys hired a taxi to take them to a golf course. On the way the driver suddenly jammed on the brakes and Jim was thrown through the partition. His right eye is swollen out of all proportion and a tooth pushed into the roof of his mouth, which required surgery.

P.S.: "The Unforgiven" is rumored as one of John Huston's best.

Gene Barry, his wife and children, just THOUGHT they were going to spend Christmas in Florida. Plans for the family to celebrate Gene's first time off in five years, including his Bat Masterson TV shows, were cancelled when Gene was contacted to co-host the Chevy show of Dec. 27. Dinah Shore wants to rest the holiday week.

Once again Gene's sidekick on the Chevy show will be Craig "Peter Gunn" Stevens with whom he registered so effectively a few weeks ago. Both Barry and Stevens are rapidly making names for themselves as song and dance men—a strange fate for Peter Gunn and Bat Masterson.

WINE-TASTERS

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — During the filming of location scenes for Walt Disney's "Pollyanna" in Napa Valley, actors Adolphe Menjou and Ed Dearing were invited to visit one of the wineries for which the area is famous.

When they arrived, they discovered the yearly wine tasting ceremonies were underway and they were invited to take part. Invitation accepted.

Until the end of the 17th century, poor people in England were buried without coffins, wrapped in cloth or even just covered with flowers.

Lean Years Ahead For Labor Party

Is the British Labor Party doomed to become dead as a dinosaur? The decline and fall of major political parties has been predicted again and again, and in most cases the parties survived.

But major parties do lose mass support and die, and at its recent meeting at Blackpool the Labor Party acted as if its sands were running out.

After suffering three electoral setbacks in a row, with indications of a steady decline in popular support, its problem is how to have more impact on more voters. It is quite evident that too few Britons will vote for the party simply because it stands for nationalization. A majority of the delegates at Blackpool seemed to feel the party should quietly lay doctrinaire nationalization on the back shelf.

But a substantial minority, who made up in depth of emotion and violence of expression for their deficiency in numbers, was determined that the party must, if necessary, go down with the ship of nationalization. And the party leadership is loath to lose the support of these, its most dedicated and enthusiastic backers.

But there is no place in the modern world for a political party that clings blindly to tarnished and discredited socialist dogmas. Until the British Laborites can calm their diachards, or outlive them, they seem to have a future in which the lean years will predominate.

These Days

Sugar Politics

Sugar is not a scarce commodity. It is found plentifully in many countries and is manufactured from cane and beets for commercial purposes. The fact that sugar is the principal crop of Cuba does not mean that Cuba is the principal producer of sugar. The world production of sugar in 1958 was about 52,000,000 tons of which Cuba provided 6,500,000 tons. The United States can be amply supplied without buying a pound of Cuban sugar.

The United States has stimulated the growing of sugar in Cuba since 1934 by paying over two cents per pound more than the world price. For instance, the Russians bought sugar from Cuba this year, paying 2.9 cents a pound while at the same time the United States pays 5.23 cents a pound. The United States has been paying Cuba as a dolo of between $150,000,000 to $180,000,000 a year, by paying the additional price for Cuban sugar. There can be no economic justification for this dolo; it is strictly political.

Several suggestions have been made for an equable and proper solution to our political problems with Cuba. One is to pay the world price for sugar. This would deprive Castro of the dolo. Another is to stop buying Cuban sugar altogether.

Another suggestion that has been made along these lines is that we actually pay the higher price for Cuban sugar but that we put the amount above the world price in escrow for the Cuban people and/or to compensate American persons and firms whose property in Cuba is confiscated by Castro's government.

The argument in favor of the latter proposal is as follows:

1. The extra amount over the world price that the United States pays for sugar was intended for the benefit of the Cuban people. The United States has no desire to deprive the Cuban people of this benefit but recognizes that a foul regime has been established in Cuba by Fidel Castro in the guise of Humanismo. Some day, Cuba will need money to repair the physical and international relations damages done by Castro. We shall put that money in escrow for them;

2. By this means we make it known to Castro, to the Cuban people, and to all Latin Americans that we are not antagonistic to any of these people but that we are opposed to the establishment of Communisticly oriented dictatorships on the American continents and that we shall employ whatever means are available to indicate our disapproval;

3. It would make it perfectly clear that whereas we are a government governed by laws, we are not so inflexible that we cannot adjust our laws to protect our interests;

4. We would by this means also indicate that a new and friendly government would be treated by our government in a reciprocal friendly manner.

Our difficulties in the Castro situation arise from errors made by the State Department in their appraisal of the man, Fidel Castro, his associations, his brother, Raul, his Communist affiliations, the Humanismo movement, etc. It is a situation similar to that of China from 1945 to 1948. Always it is in the lower echelons of the State Department that these errors are made and the responsible men are too slow in catching them.

The person who is in charge of the Bureau of Inter-American Affairs is Roy R. Rubottom Jr., who is Assistant Secretary for Inter-American Affairs. He has been in the State Department since 1947 and has had a good experience in Spain and in Latin American affairs. It is also a known fact that when Earl E. T. Smith was appointed to be our Ambassador to Cuba, he was briefed not by a State Department official but by Herbert Matthews of "The New York Times," a newspaperman with anti-Batista leanings. This unusual procedure was arranged by William A. Wieland of the Office of Caribbean and Mexican Affairs, who came into the State Department by way of a newspaper career in Cuba. He entered the Foreign Service in 1941 and served in Latin American countries.

It ought to be the business of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to discover, publicly, why such a colossal error was made in relation to our over-quick recognition of Castro and his Humanismo regime in Cuba. Somebody slipped. What is his name?

Poll To Decide Whether Rockefeller Will Run

By Joseph Alsop

NEW YORK

In this pollsters' election, the little state of New Hampshire is likely to be polled until it hurts. Last October, Vice President Richard M. Nixon ordered a poll there. The Nixon poll gratifyingly showed 79 per cent of the New Hampshire Republican voters choosing Nixon for their party's Presidential candidate next year.

At about the same time, New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller also ordered a poll in New Hampshire. Somewhat less gratifyingly, the Rockefeller poll was not very different from the Nixon poll. It showed over 70 per cent of the New Hampshire Republicans choosing Nixon, and less than 30 per cent choosing Rockefeller.

Some time soon, one can be certain there will be another Rockefeller poll. The Governor wants the very latest, freshest information, sizzling hot from the voters' pulses, so to say, before he makes up his mind about entering the New Hampshire primary (the primary's fateful filing day is January 8).

If Rockefeller then enters a slate of delegates, as one can now bet he will do, another Nixon poll of New Hampshire will promptly ensue. It has already been ordered, on the assumption that Rockefeller is already running hard for the Republican nomination. The Nixon orders specify a poll "in depth." So it will go, no doubt, with poll following poll, until primary day comes in late winter. By then, if any New Hampshire Republican remains unpollled, he will have a right to feel insulted and write in a vote for Sen. Barry Goldwater, Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, or some other ornament of his party.

In this way, at least, the Republican problem of the New Hampshire primary is richly comic. In every other way, however, it is a deadly serious problem, for Gov. Rockefeller's final decision on his candidacy will be given in New Hampshire. This is a decision more serious for all concerned than many usually astute Republicans imagine.

The reason for this extra seriousness of Rockefeller's decision is apparent if you study the habits of the man and the underlying facts of his present situation. The Governor, in brief, is a warm campaigner but a cool customer, who does not act on impulse or in a state of self-intoxication.

He is such a lavish polltaker because he wants facts to base his choices on. He is a bold gambler, as he proved when he entered the New York race when his polls there showed that 60 per cent of the customers favored former Gov. Averell Harriman, against only 40 per cent for Rockefeller. But he also has his minimums, as aircraft pilots do, below which he will not risk a landing if the odds were a single point more than 60-40 against him.

By Rockefeller's own standard in New York, or by any other practical standard, the political weather in New Hampshire appears to be below minimums for a Rockefeller effort in the primary. Although the Governor is trying to find out if the weather has changed for the better, he plainly does not count on any

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

DEAN ACHESON — Dean Acheson, Secretary of State in the Truman administration, has become a storm center in the foreign policy debate over the future of West Berlin.

Both the extent of his activities and the side of firmness that he has chosen to advocate come as surprises in Washington, where he had come to be regarded as a retired diplomat of moderate, even liberal views.

Acheson left his office perhaps the most maligned Secretary of State of modern times. He was a principal target of political forces advocating the strongest of all possible anti-Communist lines. Some of his policies, notably in the Far East, were vigorously and unceasingly attacked by his political enemies during the campaigns of the late 1940s and early 1950s.

He was made the personification and the symbol of the charge against the Truman Administration that it was "soft on Communism."

Following the Democrats' loss of national power in 1952, Acheson was considered so much a liability in his own party that he was rarely used as its spokesman on foreign policy although he had been a leading formulator of Democratic policy.

In recent months, however, he has become most voluble on some matters, particularly in his attacks on the Eisenhower Administration and the problem of West Berlin.

Acheson, surprisingly, has taken the stand that the United States is wrong in entering any negotiations on Berlin with the Russians. He claims the West should remain firm; that any negotiation implies weakness and willingness to compromise on a matter that should brook no compromise.

Washington observers are wondering whether he is out to prove he was not a Communist sympathizer or dupe, or whether his are the first shots in the foreign policy aspects of the 1960 political campaigns.

Greece Enjoys Firm Economic Stability Under Caramanlis

By Drew Pearson

(Editor's Note—Drew Pearson, interviewing the leaders of Europe and Asia in advance of President Eisenhower's trip, today interviews Premier Caramanlis of Greece.)

ATHENS—President Eisenhower will confer today with a Greek prime minister who is almost unique in history—Constantine Caramanlis. He is unique because of the Greek habit of putting a man in office, then so vigorously practicing the democracy to which they gave birth that everyone unites to knock the newly elected premier out of office.

As a result, only three Greek prime ministers have remained four years in office since 1860 and Caramanlis is one of them. He will probably remain another four years for a total of eight—chiefly for one reason. He has given Greece the highest level of prosperity it has ever enjoyed and he has done it without limiting basic freedoms and with only a pittance of aid, presently, from the United States.

This does not mean Greece really is prosperous. According to American standards, its hard-working 8,000,000 people — about the population of New York City — exist just above the subsistence level. But all things are relative, and compared with the past Greece has seldom enjoyed such economic stability.

The prime minister who accomplished this is the son of a school-teacher who grew up in what was once Turkish Greece and has learned to live in sometimes precarious juxtaposition with the Turks. Caramanlis is handsome, vigorous, vivacious, looks younger than his 52 years. He will be an outgoing, outspoken, charming host to Eisenhower, will not hesitate to tell him exactly what he thinks about the problems of the little country which the Truman doctrine rescued from communism.

Worry Over Relaxation

Sitting at lunch beside the blue Aegean in the waning winter sunshine he told me some of them.

"We face the most crucial decision of our time," the Premier said, referring to the west's problem of relaxation with Russia. "We all want peace, but we want it with safeguards. And we must look ahead not six months or two or three years, but many years."

"Mr. Khrushchev has been to Washington to see President Eisenhower, and things are better. Which is fine. But what will happen in the future? How soon will the Kremlin change its mind? When it does, we can't reverse our policy overnight. We are a democracy. So are you."

"This is what I told Tito of Yugoslavia," the Greek Prime minister continued with vigor. "He was coming back from the Near East and asked me to meet him on the island of Rhodos. He said 'why don't we disarm and get rid of these two blocs of the east and west that we small countries are in between?'"

"It's a good idea," I said, "but what happens after that? What happens when Moscow changes its policy? The Russians are past masters at infiltration. They have a dictatorship and we have a democracy. We have freedom of the press, a constitution. We can't throw people in jail without a trial. In a dictatorship you can say off with their heads."

"Tito replied that Yugoslavia had been infiltrated by Dijos (former Yugoslav Communist leader who wrote the famous book attacking Yugoslav communism). But I couldn't convince him. Greece remains excellent friends with Yugoslavia but we couldn't agree on this."

Airplanes flew low over the Aegean, drowning conversation in the restaurant below. They were American planes from the U. S. Air Force base near Athens. I made a joking remark about taking the planes out of Greece.

"If those planes left, Russian planes would move in," said the Prime Minister earnestly. "We've lived under communism. We know that democracy and communism don't mix. There can be no democracy when communism is alongside. They can't exist together. We all want peace, but how are we going to get it unless we have proper safeguards?"

This will be the main problem the Prime Minister will take up with President Eisenhower.

Although he will not ask Eisenhower for more aid, there's no question Greece is having a hard struggle paying its share of a NATO army with almost no help from the United States. And the people of Greece firmly hope that something will be done to ease this arms burden.

Near War Averted

As President Eisenhower arrives in Greece one of the most difficult problems disrupting allied relations is progressing toward an amicable settlement — namely, the island of Cyprus. This relatively obscure island lying off the coast of Turkey, yet inhabited 80 per cent by Greeks, one year ago brought Turkey and Greece almost to the brink of war. Foreign Minister Evangelos Averoff of Greece told me the inside story of how the crisis finally eased.

He was in New York at a United Nations meeting where Turkey had just won a vote in one of the skirmishes regarding Cyprus. After the vote Foreign Minister Zorlu of Turkey remarked to him: "Well, we won the vote but you won the discussion."

"My dear friend," replied Averoff "neither of us won the discussion. We were not being statesmen. We were appealing to our voltages, to national passions. We were not working for peace."

"Perhaps you are right," replied the Turkish Foreign Minister, and suggested that Turkey would agree to a compromise on Cyprus if the Turks on the island were called a community, not a minority.

"We will agree to that if you in turn do not call twenty equal to eighty," replied the Greek Foreign Minister, referring to the fact that the Turkish minority of 20 per cent wanted as many rights as the Greek population of 80 per cent. This was agreed. And next morning the two men began working out what eventually became the peaceful solution of one of the most dynamite-laden danger spots in the Mediterranean.

Political Dynamite

Caramanlis and Greece live on top of a more dangerous keg of political dynamite than any in most of the countries like is visiting. On one side is Communist Albania, another side Communist Bulgaria, and on a third side is Communist Yugoslavia—though it's friendly. Shortly before Eisenhower arrived here, Caramanlis' chief political opponent, ex-Premier Venizelos, made a speech practically stating that Russia was ready to buy all Greece's surplus crops and to finance all Greek irrigation and public works projects.

Caramanlis has to balance this off against dwindling aid from the United States, and the balancing isn't easy. On top of this Moscow has intensified its propaganda in Greece. Just before Ike's arrival it issued a special Russian stamp in commemoration of the Greek editor, Manolis Glezos of the left-wing paper Avghti, who was sentenced to five years imprisonment for espionage.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

The Actor ordered another ginger ale and he sat over it, brooding silently as some men do when they have been on the wagon for a long time. He is a good man with standing in his profession, but he regards himself as an alcoholic and it must have required courage for him to say it, the first time, to himself.

There are all kinds of drinkers in the Actor's world. He would call a Bat Man. When he was on Broadway in a hit play, he would be dry for long periods and then, out of nothing, he would start to hit the bars along Eighth Avenue and his family would have to come and get him.

He was always tractable: always a gentleman. He never looked for trouble or started a fight. Come to think of it, I never knew him to miss a performance either. One time, he went onstage in a mellow glow and he missed a few lines. After the curtain, an actress said: 'He'll go into the gutter like the rest of them.'

The Actor heard it. He dreaded to think about it, but he did. He joined a chapter of Alcoholics Anonymous. It was the best move of his life. He has been sober ever since. It is an unrelenting struggle, as he tells it, but it has given him peace of mind and his wife now hums in the kitchen.

We sat talking about it, as he watched the ice melt in the ginger ale. The Actor, a graying man with straight black hair, is handsome and, now and then, customers stopped by to ask him to autograph bits of menu and scraps of paper. He's a patient man.

"My gripe with you fellows in the newspaper business," he said, "I've read a lot about alcoholism in the past year. I learned a little and the newspapers sometimes refer to a person as an ex-alcoholic. There is no such thing."

"You mean," I said, "that the word ex is out of place?"

"It's like saying an ex-diabetic or an ex-paraplegic," he said. "Alcoholism is a sickness. Once you have it, you always have it, even though you haven't touched a drink in twenty years." He grinned. "What do you think would happen to a so-called ferm-

er alcoholic if he took a slug?" "He'd drink a hundred of them," I said. The Actor nodded. "The disease never leaves the patient. Whatever it is that makes booze and him mortal enemies remains the same no matter how long he is off the stuff. Another thing I don't like is when a columnist has a line about a man seen drunk in a bar, and mentions that he belongs to A.A."

"You know what that does?" It gives a half million men the shakes, that's what it does. When we read about a member who is back drinking, it makes the rest of us realize how short the distance is between us and the nearest bottle. Why mention Alcoholics Anonymous?"

I said I didn't know. I tried to turn the conversation to a lighter vein. I told the Actor that Nelson Benedict, the Hemingway of Fish and Game Columnists, was at "21" one noon and heard a stranger say that Jim Bishop was an alcoholic and he wondered how the heck he could be ossified at ten in the morning and still write a column.

Benedict, who is always helpful, told the stranger that Bishop lives a few blocks from him and that he doesn't write the column himself; he pays a dwarf to do it. The Actor didn't think this was funny. He knows that I used to love to indulge in a Saturday night beer bag, but that those days have been dead a long time. I still smoke too much and eat too much, but I intend to hang onto those vices.

I asked him if he had heard that some doctors are now working on a physical reason for alcoholism. He shook his head. "I don't know much about it," I said, "but there was an old doctor in Alabama named Seale, Harris. He claimed that there was an opposite to diabetes, something called hyperinsulinism. In diabetes, the body can't handle sugar. In hyperinsulinism, the body gobbles sugar faster than it can be ingested. Some of the victims turn to the bottle." The Actor drank his ginger ale and made a face. He turned the glass in his hand. "I wonder what would happen," he said, "if I ever got to like this stuff?"

How Electronics Helps In Medical Research

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The medical profession is knee deep in electronics. Engineers have invented many new gadgets, varying from a computer that memorizes the signs and symptoms of all diseases, to a small meter that is inserted into an artery to record the flow of blood.

Some of these electronic devices are more practical than others. We still are awaiting a robot that can conduct an examination in the home, do blood counts and electrocardiograms, and radio back the findings to the physician in his office.

Artificial muscles that come to life have been developed to help the paralyzed and the limbless. An electronic attachment on a healthy muscle picks up and amplifies impulses that control a gas valve. This causes the gas under pressure to work an artificial muscle that lifts or turns the hands, feet, legs, or arms.

These special muscle potential amplifiers have been built also to control artificial respiration and to time the beat of the heart.

A peanut sized radioisotope, swallowed by a patient, sends back signals as it passes through the alimentary tract on the temperature, pressure, and acidity of its environment. In addition, it will draw a sample of the fluid whenever the operator wishes, and preserve it for subsequent laboratory examination.

Ultrasonic waves are used to destroy bacteria and disintegrate kidney stones. They can be employed like depth devices on a ship to probe body cavities and organs to detect tumors. These waves are not always harmless in that any thing capable of disintegrating a stone should be capable of damaging bones and other tissues.

Computers may play a major role in the hospital of the future, helping one nurse to keep tab on the pulse, blood pressure, and general condition of many patients. The hearing aid of the future may be imbedded in the head of a deaf person and consist of a speaker that makes delicate electrical connections to the nerve fibers leading to the brain. Electrical signals from outside the head will be transmitted to coils in the speaker.

Don't rush to your physician asking him for devices of this sort. They are part of modern research in our electronic era. TOMORROW: Acute and chronic pancreatitis.

Lean Years Ahead
For Labor Party

Is the British Labor Party doomed to become dead as a dinosaur? The decline and fall of major political parties has been predicted again and again, and in most cases the parties survived.

But major parties do lose mass support and die, and at its recent meeting at Blackpool the Labor Party acted as if its sands were running out.

After suffering three electoral setbacks in a row, with indications of a steady decline in popular support, its problem is how to have more impact on more voters. It is quite evident that too few Britons will vote for the party simply because it stands for nationalization. A majority of the delegates at Blackpool seemed to feel the party should quietly lay doctrinaire nationalization on the back shelf.

But a substantial minority, who made up in depth of emotion and violence of expression for their deficiency in numbers, was determined that the party must, if necessary, go down with the ship of nationalization. And the party leadership is loath to lose the support of these, its most dedicated and enthusiastic backers.

But there is no place in the modern world for a political party that clings blindly to tarnished and discredited socialist dogmas. Until the British Laborites can calm their diaphanous, or outlive them, they seem to have a future in which the lean years will predominate.

These Days

Sugar Politics

Sugar is not a scarce commodity. It is found plentifully in many countries and is manufactured from cane and beets for commercial purposes. The fact that sugar is the principal crop of Cuba does not mean that Cuba is the principal producer of sugar. The world production of sugar in 1958 was about 52,000,000 tons of which Cuba provided 6,500,000 tons. The United States can be amply supplied without buying a pound of Cuban sugar.

The United States has stimulated the growing of sugar in Cuba since 1934 by paying over two cents per pound more than the world price. For instance, the Russians bought sugar from Cuba this year, paying 2.9 cents a pound while at the same time the United States pays 5.23 cents a pound. The United States has been paying Cuba as a dolo of between $150,000,000 to $180,000,000 a year, by paying the additional price for Cuban sugar. There can be no economic justification for this dolo; it is strictly political.

Several suggestions have been made for an equitable and proper solution to our political problems with Cuba. One is to pay the world price for sugar. This would deprive Castro of the dolo. Another is to stop buying Cuban sugar altogether.

But all things are relative, and compared with the past Greece has seldom enjoyed such economic stability.

The prime minister who accomplished this is the son of a school-teacher who grew up in what was once Turkish Greece and has learned to live in sometimes precarious juxtaposition with the Turks. Caramanlis is handsome, vigorous, vivacious, looks younger than his 52 years. He will be an outgoing, outspoken, charming host to Eisenhower, will not hesitate to tell him exactly what he thinks about the problems of the little country which the Truman doctrine rescued from communism.

Worry Over Relaxation

Sitting at lunch beside the blue Aegean in the waning winter sunshine he told me some of them.

"We face the most crucial decision of our time," the Premier said, referring to the west's problem of relaxation with Russia. "We all want peace, but we want it with safeguards. And we must look ahead not six months or two or three years, but many years."

"Mr. Khrushchev has been to Washington to see President Eisenhower, and things are better. Which is fine. But what will happen in the future? How soon will the Kremlin change its mind? When it does, we can't reverse our policy overnight. We are a democracy. So are you."

"This is what I told Tito of Yugoslavia," the Greek Prime minister continued with vigor. "He was coming back from the Near East and asked me to meet him on the island of Rhodus. He said 'why don't we disarm and get rid of these two blocs of the east and west that we small countries are in between?'"

"It's a good idea," I said, "but what happens after that? What happens when Moscow changes its policy? The Russians are past masters at infiltration. They have a dictatorship and we have a democracy. We have freedom of the press, a constitution. We can't throw people in jail without a trial. In a dictatorship you can say off with their heads."

"Tito replied that Yugoslavia had been infiltrated by Dijos (former Yugoslav Communist leader who wrote the famous book attacking Yugoslav communism). But I couldn't convince him. Greece remains excellent friends with Yugoslavia but we couldn't agree on this."

Airplanes flew low over the Aegean, drowning conversation in the restaurant below. They were American planes from the U. S. Air Force base near Athens. I made a joking remark about taking the planes out of Greece.

"If those planes left, Russian planes would move in," said the Prime Minister earnestly. "We've lived under communism. We know that democracy and communism don't mix. There can be no democracy when communism is alongside. They can't exist together. We all want peace, but how are we going to get it unless we have proper safeguards?"

This will be the main problem the Prime Minister will take up with President Eisenhower.

Although he will not ask Eisenhower for more aid, there's no question Greece is having a hard struggle paying its share of a NATO army with almost no help from the United States. And the people of Greece firmly hope that something will be done to ease this arms burden.

Near War Averted

As President Eisenhower arrives in Greece one of the most difficult problems disrupting allied relations is progressing toward an amicable settlement — namely, the island of Cyprus. This relatively obscure island lying off the coast of Turkey, yet inhabited 80 per cent by Greeks, one year ago brought Turkey and Greece almost to the brink of war. Foreign Minister Evangelos Averoff of Greece told me the inside story of how the crisis finally eased.

He was in New York at a United Nations meeting where Turkey had just won a vote in one of the skirmishes regarding Cyprus. After the vote Foreign Minister Zorlu of Turkey remarked to him: "Well, we won the vote but you won the discussion."

"My dear friend," replied Averoff, "neither of us won the discussion. We were not being statesmen. We were appealing to our volages, to national passions. We were not working for peace."

"Perhaps you are right," replied the Turkish Foreign Minister, and suggested that Turkey would agree to a compromise on Cyprus if the Turks on the island were called a community, not a minority.

"We will agree to that if you in turn do not call twenty equal to eighty," replied the Greek Foreign Minister, referring to the fact that the Turkish minority of 20 per cent wanted as many rights as the Greek population of 80 per cent. This was agreed. And next morning the two men began working out what eventually became the peaceful solution of one of the most dynamite-laden danger spots in the Mediterranean.

Political Dynamite

Caramanlis and Greece live on top of a more dangerous keg of political dynamite than any in most of the countries like is visiting. On one side is Communist Albania, another side Communist Bulgaria, and on a third side is Communist Yugoslavia — though it's friendly. Shortly before Eisenhower arrived here, Caramanlis' chief political opponent, ex-Chief Venzelos, made a speech practically stating that Russia was ready to buy all Greece's surplus crops and to finance all Greek irrigation and public works projects.

Caramanlis has to balance this off against dwindling aid from the United States, and the balancing isn't easy. On top of this Moscow has intensified its propaganda in Greece. Just before Ike's arrival it issued a special Russian stamp in commemoration of the Greek editor, Manolis Glezos of the left-wing paper Avghi, who was sentenced to five years imprisonment for espionage.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

The Actor ordered another ginger ale and he sat over it, brooding silently as some men do when they have been on the wagon for a long time. He is a good man with standing in his profession, but he regards himself as an alcoholic and it must have required courage for him to say it, the first time, to himself.

There are all kinds of drinkers. The Actor is what I would call a Bat Man. When he was on Broadway in a hit play, he would be dry for long periods and then, out of nothing, he would start to hit the bars along Eighth Avenue and his family would have to come and get him.

He was always tractable; always a gentleman. He never looked for trouble or started a fight. Come to think of it, I never knew him to miss a performance either. One time, he went onstage in a mellow glow and he missed a few lines. After the curtain, an actress said: "He'll go into the gutter like the rest of them."

The Actor heard it. He headed to think about it, but he did. He joined a chapter of Alcoholics Anonymous. It was the best, move of his life. He has been sober ever since. It is an unremitting struggle, as he tells it, but it has given him peace of mind and his wife now hums in the kitchen.

We sat talking about it, as he watched the ice melt in the ginger ale. The Actor, a graying man with straight black hair, is handsome and, now and then, customers stopped by to ask him to autograph bits of menu and scraps of paper. He's a patient man.

"My gripe with you fellows in the newspaper business," he said, "I've read a lot about alcoholism in the past year. I learned a little and the newspapers sometimes refer to a person as an ex-alcoholic. There is no such thing."

"You mean," I said, "that the word ex is out of place?"

"It's like saying an ex-diabetic or an ex-paraplegic," he said. "Alcoholism is a sickness. Once you have it, you always have it, even though you haven't touched a drink in twenty years." He grinned. "What do you think would happen to a so-called ferm-

er alcoholic if he took a slug?" "He'd drink a hundred of them," I said. The Actor nodded. "The disease never leaves the patient. Whatever it is that makes booze and him mortal enemies remains the same no matter how long he is off the stuff. Another thing I don't like is when a columnist has a line about a man seen drunk in a bar, and mentions that he belongs to A.A."

"You know what that does? It gives a half million men the shakes, that's what it does. When we read about a member who is back drinking, it makes the rest of us realize how short the distance is between us and the nearest bottle. Why mention Alcoholics Anonymous?"

I said I didn't know. I tried to turn the conversation to a lighter vein. I told The Actor that Nelson Benedict, the Hemingway of Fish and Game Columnists, was at "21" one noon and heard a stranger say that Jim Bishop was an alcoholic and he wondered how the heck he could be ossified at ten in the morning and still write a column. Benedict, who is always helpful, told the stranger that Bishop lives a few blocks from him and that he doesn't write the column himself; he pays a dwarf to do it. The Actor didn't think this was funny. He knows that I used to love to indulge in a Saturday night beer bag, but that those days have been dead a long time. I still smoke to much and eat too much, but I intend to hang onto those vices.

I asked him if he had heard that some doctors are now working on a physical reason for alcoholism. He shook his head. "I don't know much about it," I said, "but there was an old doctor in Alabama named Seale Harris. He claimed that there was an opposite to diabetes, something called hyperinsulinism. In diabetes, the body can't handle sugar. In hyperinsulinism, the body gobbles sugar faster than it can be ingested. Some of the victims turn to the bottle."

The Actor drank his ginger ale and made a face. He turned the glass in his hand. "I wonder what would happen," he said, "if I ever got to like this stuff?"

3,000 Welcome Colts After Win Over Rams

Cop Division Title, Taking Final, 45-26

BALTIMORE (AP)—Some 3,000 fans welcomed home the Baltimore Colts Sunday after the team clinched the Western Division title of the National Football League Saturday.

But the 45-26 victory over the Los Angeles Rams cost the Colts the services of Bert Rechichar, who injured his right knee. The defensive halfback and place-kicking specialist will undergo an operation Monday and doctors say he definitely will miss the championship clash here Dec. 27 against the New York Giants.

The crowd that greeted the team at Friendship Airport at 7 a. m. started forming about 5 a. m. Coach Weeb Ewbank and his coaching staff made it a busman's holiday of sorts. They went to Griffith Stadium in Washington to get a look at the Giants, who defeated the Redskins 24-10.

"A good solid ball club, at least as good as last year," said Ewbank, whose Colts edged out the Giants for the NFL title in 1958.

Marines Post Record Score

Cop Shrimp Bowl Contest, 90 To 0

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—The Quantico, Va., Marines ran up the biggest score ever recorded in Public School Stadium Sunday in smashing McClellan Air Force Base 90-0 in the seventh annual Shrimp Bowl football game.

Stewart Flythe ran 90 yards and Stu Vaughan took an intercepted pass back 53 yards to highlight the greatest touchdown avalanche this post-season game designed to settle the national service championship, ever has seen.

The undefeated, untied Marines were held fairly close by the Air Force boys from Sacramento, Calif., for a quarter but the dam broke in the second period. McClellan finally gave up getting anywhere and would even run on fourth down with hopes of getting to keep the ball. McClellan tried 42 passes and completed 14 as its only offensive threat.

St. Louis Hawks Trim Cincinnati

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—The St. Louis Hawks took an early lead over Cincinnati Sunday night and coasted to a 118-98 victory over the Royals in a National Basketball Association game.

Cliff Hagan and Bob Pettit were high in the scoring column for St. Louis. Hagan accounted for 27 points and Pettit added 26 and 19 rebounds.

Jack Twyman, who went in the game with a 31-point average, was held to 19, high for the Royals.

Cincinnati played six minutes in the first quarter before hitting a basket. By that time the Hawks were off to an 11-4 lead. St. Louis lead at the end of the period 28-17.

Jack McMahon, eight-year veteran guard in the NBA, made the final home appearance of his career. McMahon, named assistant coach of the Hawks last week, will be taken off the active list Tuesday.

Allegany Deer Kills Hit 571, 611 In Garrett

Records Unbroken; State Total 2,971

A total of 1,411 deer were slain in Region No. 1 during Maryland's first seven-day gunning season which ended Saturday, according to Joseph A. Minke, Cumberland, regional game warden for Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties.

Garrett County led the state with 611, compared to the record of 710 set there during a six-day season.

Allegany County's unofficial total was 571 and that was 25 short of the all-time mark of 596.

Woodmont Opens Dec. 16
A total of 230 kills were reported in Washington County, and that's well below the record of 361. The record for Washington County includes the Woodmont Gun Club season which does not open until December 16.

The heavy rain on Saturday probably kept this region from having a record deer kill on the final day of the season. Nevertheless, several hundred hunters did brave the heavy downpour and a good number of whitetails were bagged.

On the final day 82 bucks were checked in Garrett County and 42 in Allegany. No kills were reported in Washington County.

There were no shooting accidents reported here and so far no fatal accidents were reported anywhere in Maryland.

The illegal kill was light in comparison to other years. Eleven hunters, however, were charged with making illegal kills, three for hunting for a second deer, two for shooting wild turkeys and a few non-residents were charged with hunting with improper license, mostly from Washington, D. C.

The small game season will reopen today for rabbits, ruffed grouse, pheasants and quail and will remain open until January 5. 2,971 Killed In State
Chief Game Warden George Shields last night reported 2,971 deer were bagged in the 22 counties during the 7-day hunt which began Saturday, Dec. 5. In addition, 448 were shot on the Army's Aberdeen Proving Ground and 115 at the Edgewood Chemical Center for an overall state total of 3,534.

The record kill of 3,131 was set last year in the counties. The total did not include kills on the army reservations.

After the Garrett total of 611 and Allegany's 571 came Worcester County on the Eastern Shore with 248. Washington was next with 230, followed by Dorchester with 222.

The kill in other counties: Carroll 49, Frederick 177, Howard 17, Anne Arundel 5, Calvert 23, Charles 74, Prince Georges 2, St. Mary's 6, Baltimore 39, Cecil 189, Harford 59, Kent 171, Queen Annes 51, Caroline 25, Talbot 56, Somerset 68, and Wicomico 78.

More Deer Hunting
Some more deer hunting remains. Beginning Thursday and continuing through Saturday antlerless animals may be hunted in Dorchester, Kent, Wicomico, Somerset and Worcester counties.

A number of hunters got their permits during the antlered season, and the Game and Inland Fish Commission is prepared to issue 235 more for the short season. They will be issued Tuesday on a first-come-first-served basis in courthouses of Dorchester, Wicomico, Somerset and Worcester counties.

Shields said 80 permits will be available for Dorchester County, 30 for Wicomico, 25 for Somerset and Worcester 100.

The commission previously issued a total of 300 permits in Kent, 1,200 in Dorchester, 700 in Wicomico, 600 in Somerset and 1,800 in Worcester.

Giants Score Tenth Victory In Washington

Gifford Sets Club Mark In 24-10 Win

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER
WASHINGTON (AP)—Charley Conerly pitched two touchdown passes and Frank Gifford set a club rushing mark Sunday as New York wore out the Washington Redskins for a 24-10 victory.

The comeback from a 10-7 halftime deficit gave the Giants their 10th triumph in 12 regular season games and the best record in the National Football League. They already had nailed down the Eastern Conference title and played before the prying eyes of Coach Weeb Ewbank, whose Baltimore Colts meet New York for the NFL championship in two weeks.

Although he didn't score, halfback Gifford, by netting 84 yards on the ground, increased his total for eight seasons to 3,347. Ed Price held the old New York career ball-carrying record of 3,292 yards.

Conerly tossed a 9-yard pass to rookie Joe Morrison in the first quarter to square the match at 7-all with Pat Summerall's conversion. The Redskins had shocked the crowd of 26,198 in Griffith Stadium with a 10-play, 80-yard drive from the opening kickoff that sent them ahead on Dick Haley's 3-yard gallop around end.

Sam Baker's 39-yard field goal in the second period put the Redskins, 10-point underdogs, in the lead once more but they couldn't score after intermission while the Giants rolled on.

Conerly tossed 26 yards to Kyle Rote for a third-quarter touchdown and Summerall followed this with a 14-yard field goal.

Morrison scored the final Giant touchdown on a 1-yard plunge in the fourth period.

New York ... 7 0 10 7—24
Washington ... 7 3 0 0—10
New York: TD, Morrison 2 (9 pass from Conerly, 1 plunge), Rote (26 pass from Conerly), PAT, Summerall 3. FG, Summerall (14).

Green Bay Snares 4th In Row, 36-14

By JACK STEVENSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Green Bay spotted San Francisco two first quarter touchdowns Sunday before the Packers roared back for a 36-14 victory as former Notre Dame star Paul Hornung scored 22 points.

The Green Bay victory gave the Packers their fourth straight National Football League triumph and a tie for third place with the 49ers in the final Western Division standings.

Each has a 7-5 record. It marked the first winning season for Green Bay since 1947.

Baltimore clinched the division title Saturday, beating the Rams. Hornung scored on runs of 13, 3 and 2 yards and booted four conversions as his club upset the 49ers who were favored by a touchdown.

Quarterback Bart Starr, with two touchdowns passed, shared honors on the winning club. Bill Forester proved the standout on a defense which stiffened after San Francisco grabbed a 14-0 lead.

Newcomer C.R. Roberts scored on a 46-yard run, the second time he had ever carried the ball for the 49ers. The next time San Francisco had the ball, J.D. Smith scored on a 10-yard run which capped an 80-yard drive.

From then on it was all Green Bay.

Jack Fleck, 1955 National Open champ from Tarzana, Calif., had 71 Sunday and took third place with 205. One shot back at 206 was another former open champ, Dick Mayer, 1957 winner from St. Petersburg, Fla. Mayer had 69 Sunday.

3,000 Welcome Colts After Win Over Rams

Cop Division Title, Taking Final, 45-26

BALTIMORE (AP)—Some 3,000 fans welcomed home the Baltimore Colts Sunday after the team clinched the Western Division title of the National Football League Sunday.

But the 45-26 victory over the Los Angeles Rams cost the Colts the services of Bert Rechichar, who injured his right knee. The defensive halfback and placekicking specialist will undergo an operation Monday and doctors say he definitely will miss the championship clash Dec. 27 against the New York Giants.

The crowd that greeted the team at Friendship Airport at 7 a. m. started forming about 5 a. m. Coach Weeb Ewbank and his coaching staff made it a busman's holiday of sorts. They went to Griffith Stadium in Washington to get a look at the Giants, who defeated the Redskins 24-10.

"A good solid ball club, at least as tough as last year," said Ewbank, whose Colts edged out the Giants for the NFL title in 1958.

Marines Post Record Score

Cop Shrimp Bowl Contest, 90 To 0

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—The Quantico, Va., Marines ran up the highest score ever recorded in Public School Stadium Sunday in smashing McClellan Air Force Base 90-0 in the seventh annual Shrimp Bowl football game.

Stewart Flythe ran 90 yards and Stu Vaughan took an intercepted pass back 53 yards to highlight the greatest touchdown avalanche in this post-season game designed to settle the national service championship, ever has seen.

The undefeated, untied Marines were held fairly close by the Air Force boys from Sacramento, Calif., for a quarter but the dam broke in the second period. McClellan finally gave up getting anywhere and would even run on fourth down with hopes of getting to keep the ball. McClellan tried 42 passes and completed 14 as its only offensive threat.

St. Louis Hawks Trim Cincinnati

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—The St. Louis Hawks took an early lead over Cincinnati Sunday night and coasted to a 118-98 victory over the Royals in a National Basketball Association game.

Jack Twyman, who went in the game with a 31-point average, was held to 19, high for the Royals.

Cincinnati played six minutes in the first quarter before hitting a basket. By that time the Hawks were off to an 11-4 lead. St. Louis led at the end of the period 28-17.

Jack McMahon, eight-year veteran guard in the NBA, made the final home appearance of his career. McMahon, named assistant coach of the Hawks last week, will be taken off the active list Tuesday.

Allegany Deer Kills Hit 571, 611 In Garrett

Records Unbroken; State Total 2,971

A total of 1,411 deer were slain in Region No. 1 during Maryland's first seven-day gunning season which ended Saturday, according to Joseph A. Minke, Cumberland, regional game warden for Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties.

Garrett County led the state with 611, compared to the record of 710 set there during a six-day season.

Allegany County's unofficial total was 571 and that was 23 short of the all-time mark of 596.

Woodmont Opens Dec. 16

A total of 230 kills were reported in Washington County, and that's well below the record of 361. The record for Washington County includes the Woodmont Gun Club season which does not open until December 16.

The heavy rain on Saturday probably kept this region from having a record deer kill on the final day of the season. Nevertheless, several hundred hunters did brave the heavy downpour and a good number of whitetails were bagged.

On the final day 82 bucks were checked in Garrett County and 42 in Allegany. No kills were reported in Washington County.

There were no shooting accidents reported here and so far no fatal accidents were reported anywhere in Maryland.

The illegal kill was light in comparison to other years. Eleven hunters, however, were charged with making illegal kills, three for hunting for a second deer, two for shooting wild turkeys and a few non-residents were charged with hunting with improper license, mostly from Washington, D. C.

The small game season will reopen today for rabbits, ruffed grouse, pheasants and quail and will remain open until January 5.

2,971 Killed In State
Chief Game Warden George Shields last night reported 2,971 deer were bagged in the 22 counties during the 7-day hunt which began Saturday, Dec. 5. In addition, 448 were shot on the Army's Aberdeen Proving Ground and 115 at the Edgewood Chemical Center for an overall state total of 3,534.

The record kill of 3,131 was set last year in the counties. The total did not include kills on the army reservations.

After the Garrett total of 611 and Allegany's 571 came Worcester County on the Eastern Shore with 248. Washington was next with 230, followed by Dorchester with 222.

The kill in other counties: Carroll 49, Frederick 177, Howard 17, Anne Arundel 5, Calvert 22, Charles 74, Prince Georges 22, St. Mary's 6, Baltimore 39, Cecil 189, Harford 59, Kent 171, Queen Annes 51, Caroline 25, Talbot 56, Somerset 68, and Wicomico 78.

More Deer Hunting
Some more deer hunting remains. Beginning Thursday and continuing through Saturday antlerless animals may be hunted in Dorchester, Kent, Wicomico, Somerset and Worcester counties.

A number of hunters got their permits during the antlered season, and the Game and Inland Fish Commission is prepared to issue 235 more for the short season. They will be issued Tuesday on a first-come-first-served basis in courthouses of Dorchester, Wicomico, Somerset and Worcester counties.

Shields said 80 permits will be available for Dorchester County, 30 for Wicomico, 25 for Somerset and Worcester 100.

The commission previously issued a total of 300 permits in Kent, 1,200 in Dorchester, 700 in Wicomico, 600 in Somerset and 1,800 in Worcester.

Giants Score Tenth Victory In Washington

Gifford Sets Club Mark In 24-10 Win

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER
WASHINGTON (AP)—Charley Conerly pitched two touchdown passes and Frank Gifford set a club rushing mark Sunday as New York wore out the Washington Redskins for a 24-10 victory.

The comeback from a 10-7 half-time deficit gave the Giants their 10th triumph in 12 regular season games and the best record in the National Football League. They already had nailed down the Eastern Conference title and played before the prying eyes of Coach Weeb Ewbank, whose Baltimore Colts meet New York for the NFL championship in two weeks.

Although he didn't score, halfback Gifford, by netting 84 yards on the ground, increased his total for eight seasons to 3,347. Ed Price held the old New York career half-carrying record of 3,292.

Conerly tossed a 9-yard pass to rookie Joe Morrison in the first quarter to square the match at 7-all with Pat Summerall's conversion. The Redskins had shocked the crowd of 26,198 in Griffith Stadium with a 10-play, 90-yard drive from the opening kickoff that sent them ahead on Dick Haley's 3-yard gallop around end.

Sam Baker's 39-yard field goal in the second period put the Redskins, 10-point underdogs, in the lead once more but they couldn't score after intermission while the Giants rolled on.

Conerly tossed 26 yards to Kyle Rote for a third-quarter touchdown and Summerall followed this with a 14-yard field goal.

Morrison scored the final Giant touchdown on a 1-yard plunge in the fourth period.

New York 7 0 10 7—24
Washington 7 3 0 0—10

New York: TD, Morrison 2 (9 pass from Conerly, 1 plunge); Rote (26 pass from Conerly); PAT, Summerall 3, FG, Summerall (14).

Washington: TD, Haley (3 run); PAT, Baker, FG, Baker (39).

Green Bay Snarles 4th In Row, 36-14

By JACK STEVENSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Green Bay spotted San Francisco two first quarter touchdowns Sunday before the Packers roared back for a 36-14 victory as former Notre Dame star Paul Hornung scored 22 points.

The Green Bay victory gave the Packers their fourth straight National Football League triumph and a tie for third place with the 49ers in the final Western Division standings.

Each has a 7-5 record. It marked the first winning season for Green Bay since 1947.

Baltimore clinched the division title Saturday, beating the Rams. Hornung scored on runs of 13, 3 and 2 yards and booted four conversions as his club upset the 49ers who were favored by a touchdown.

Quarterback Bart Starr, with two touchdowns passed, shared honors on the winning club. Bill Forester proved the standout on a defense which stifled after San Francisco grabbed a 14-0 lead.

Newcomer C.R. Roberts scored on a 46-yard run, the second time he had ever carried the ball for the 49ers. The next time San Francisco had the ball, J.D. Smith scored on a 10-yard run which capped an 80-yard drive.

From then on it was all Green Bay.

MONTEBELLO, Calif. (UPI)—Tommy Jacobs, who learned his golf on this Montebello municipal course, shot a brilliant five under par 67 Sunday to win the $5,500 Montebello Open golf tourney.

The 25-year-old Jacobs posted 34-33 on a cold, windy afternoon for a two-shot victory over long-hitting George Bayer. Jacobs, Palm Springs, Calif., carded 68-67 for a 54 hole total of 202.

Bayer, 6-4, 240 pounder from Glenaeles, Ill., who outweighs the slim Jacobs by nearly 100 pounds, shot par 72 Sunday for 204. He made $750.

Jack Fleck, 1955 National Open champ from Tarzana, Calif., had 71 Sunday and took third place with 205. One shot back at 206 was another former open champ, Dick Mayer, 1957 winner from St. Petersburg, Fla. Mayer had 69 Sunday.

Jacobs, 24, had the best round of the day. He made six birdies, including three on the last four holes, and his only bogie came on the sixth hole which he three-putted.

College Holiday Tournaments Get Rolling This Weekend

Topnotchers Will Compete In Kentucky

California Snared
19 In Row; Wildcats
Beaten By St. Louis

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Now that North Carolina's beginning to look like the Tar Heel Terrors of two years ago, defending NCAA champ California has won 19 in a row and West Virginia is 5-0. Here come the holiday tournaments to get things squared away in major college basketball.

And if you think Cincinnati is being snubbed, forget it. The Bears, with All America Oscar Robertson averaging 43 points a game, are in class by themselves at the moment.

Play In Kentucky

The Christmas rush of tournaments really gets rolling this weekend and either North Carolina or West Virginia could blast off into orbit. Both are in the four-team University of Kentucky invitational in Lexington Friday and Saturday. The Tar Heels (3-0) open against host Kentucky (2-2) and West Virginia faces the St. Louis Billikens (4-1), who whipped Kentucky 73-61 Saturday and have lost only to unbeaten Ohio State.

North Carolina put away a Friday-Saturday double this past weekend in Raleigh, N. C., whipping previously unbeaten Kansas 60-49 and then adding to Kansas State's woes 68-52.

With large Lee Shaffer, 6-7, 200 pounds, scoring 24 and staking a claim on the boards against K-State (1-3), Coach Frank McGuire's Tar Heels reminded some folks of the 1957 club that won 32 in a row and packed away the NCAA title. The Tar Heels have done it so far without sharpshooting Doug Moore, who won't shake scholastic ineptitude until the second semester, and 6-8 Dick Knapley, still nursing a pre-season ankle injury.

West Scores 34

West Virginia, hitting at a killing .539 pace (35 of 65) from the field, walloped Penn State 107-74 with Jerry West scoring 34 points. West, with Robertson the only regular, turned All Americas, sank 12 of 19 shots from the field as the Mountaineers stretched their home court winning streak to 36.

California (3-0) had some first half trouble, but beat San Jose State 54-43.

The Bears play two home games against Colorado this weekend, meet Michigan State next week and then jump into the Los Angeles holiday festival.

That tournament, perhaps the best of the bunch, lists eight teams—with West Virginia, UCLA, Illinois, Northwestern, Southern Cal, Stanford and Michigan joining California in the Dec. 28-29, 30 showdown.

Averages 105 Points

Cincinnati, averaging 105 points for its four games after Friday's 123-79 rout of St. Joseph's (Pa.), is at Louisville Saturday, then plays Bradley before hitting the holiday festival in New York.

Pitt retained its Steel Bowl title last weekend by defeating Duquesne 75-44 with John Fridley scoring 20. St. John's (N.Y.) beat William & Mary 77-65 in the consolation game.

Oklahoma City came from 17 points back and beat Montana State College 74-67 in overtime for the Treasure State classic title in Bozeman, Mont. Oregon whipped winless San Francisco 68-57 in the consolation game.

St. Louis handed Kentucky its second straight loss on a 21-point scoring show by Pete McCaffrey and the rebounding of 6-foot-10 Bob Nordmann. The Bills lost sub forward Rich Sanders when he suffered a broken leg under the boards.

Kansas Rebounds

Elsewhere, Kansas rebounded and defeated North Carolina State 80-58 with soph Wayne Hightower scoring 25 points. Richmond upset the Citadel, never a winner on the Spiders' court, 63-52 after Furman beat George Washington 76-69 in a Southern Conference double-header.

Duke, the Atlantic Coast Conference leader, defeated South Carolina 72-70. The Blue Devils play in the Birmingham classic this weekend, Georgia, trailing by nine at the half, defeated Florida 75-61 in the opener of the Southeastern Conference race.

Mississippi, with Jack Waters scoring 25, beat Arkansas for the first time in nine years, 78-63 in Little Rock. Detroit upset Purdue with its first victory ever against the Boilermakers, 84-63. Illinois beat Western Kentucky 93-80. Minnesota handed Oklahoma a first defeat 59-57.

Beat Cards Most

The Pirates had most of their success in 1959 against St. Louis, Cincinnati and Philadelphia. Against the Cardinals, the Bucs won 14 and lost only eight. And with Cincinnati and Philadelphia, they had identical 13 and nine records.

Brabham Cops World's Auto Racing Crown

Australian Noses
Out Tony Brooks

By JACK SIMMS

SEBRING, Fla. (AP) — Jack Brabham, handsome, 33-year-old daredevil driver, heads for his native Australia and a hero's welcome after pocketing the coveted world auto racing championship.

The 6-foot-1, black-haired Brabham won the crown Saturday when his two closest competitors failed to overtake him in point standings during the inaugural Grand Prix of the United States.

The new champion clinched the title the hard way—by pushing his green Cooper-Climax half a mile to the finish line and then collapsing on the track.

"This easily is the greatest thrill of my racing life — winning the world championship," Brabham said as he lay on a sofa a few minutes after the race.

Brabham actually clinched the title when Britain's Stirling Moss pulled his Cooper-Climax off the track during the sixth lap and walked dejectedly back to the pits. Moss needed a victory to edge Brabham for the title, but he was thwarted when the transmission on his car failed.

Moss, runner-up for the driving title four times, wound up third in the standings behind countryman Tony Brooks. Brabham finished with 31 points, two more than Brooks. Moss had 25½, Phil Hill of Los Angeles 20, Maurice Trintignant of France 19 and Bruce McClaron of New Zealand, winner of the U.S. Grand Prix 16½.

The 23-year-old McClaron roared to victory in Saturday's race after Brabham's car ran out of gas about half a mile from the finish line. McClaron averaged 98.83 miles an hour as he toured the grueling 218.4-mile race in 2 hours, 12 minutes, 35.7 seconds.

Trintignant, in a Cooper-Climax, finished second with Brooks third in a Ferrari, and then Brabham.

Detroit Beats Knicks, 147-129

Dukes Rings Up 38 Points For Pistons

DETROIT (UPI) — Seven-foot Walter Dukes scored 38 points and grabbed a record 32 rebounds Sunday as the Detroit Pistons set an Olympia Stadium scoring record in beating the New York Knicks, 147-129.

The Pistons were never headed as they rallied to their 12th National Basketball Association win in 17 starts.

Rookie Bailey Howell was right behind Dukes in scoring with 30 points, while Ed Conlin had 24 and Gene Shue had 22 for the Pistons.

Richie Guerin had 28 for the Knicks, Jack George 27, and Willie Naulls 24 for New York.

New York got off to a bad start by sinking only eight of 28 shots from the floor in the first quarter. Detroit, hot from the floor all afternoon, got 32 in the first quarter and held a 65-62 lead at the half.

Dukes' 38 points were a personal high for him for the season, but Shue's 43 points in an earlier game are the high for a Piston player so far this season.

Charlie Tyra, former Louisville star, was thrown out of the game at the third quarter for slugging Dukes.

Offered G.M. Post

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Bud Dudley, president of the Liberty Bowl Assn., confirmed Sunday he had been offered the general managership of the Buffalo team in the fledgling American Football League.

West Virginia Will Face VMI Keydets Today

Penn State Fifth Victim, 104 To 74

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — Coach Fred Schaus said Sunday he was "afraid" his West Virginia Mountaineers might suffer a let-down against Virginia Military.

West Virginia faces the Keydets here Monday night in quest of its sixth victory without a setback. Virginia Military is 2-2 on the season.

Ranked third in the nation by the United Press International Board of Coaches, West Virginia bounced Penn State 104-74 Saturday night.

College Holiday Tournaments Get Rolling This Weekend

Topnotchers Will Compete In Kentucky

California Snared 19 In Row; Wildcats Beaten By St. Louis

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Now that North Carolina's beginning to look like the Tar Heel Terrors of two years ago, defending NCAA champ California has won 19 in a row and West Virginia is 5-0, here come the holiday tournaments to get things squared away in major college basketball.

And if you think Cincinnati is being snubbed, forget it. The Bears, with All America Oscar Robertson averaging 43 points a game, are in class by themselves at the moment.

Play In Kentucky

The Christmas rush of tournaments really gets rolling this weekend and either North Carolina or West Virginia could blast off into orbit. Both are in the four-team University of Kentucky invitational in Lexington Friday and Saturday. The Tar Heels (3-0) open against host Kentucky (2-2) and West Virginia faces the St. Louis Billikens (4-1), who whipped Kentucky 73-61 Saturday and have lost only to unbeaten Ohio State.

North Carolina put away a Friday-Saturday double this past weekend in Raleigh, N. C., whipping previously unbeaten Kansas 69-49 and then adding to Kansas State's woes 68-52.

With large Lee Shaffer, 6-7, 200 pounds, scoring 24 and staking a claim on the boards against K-State (4-3), Coach Frank McGuire's Tar Heels reminded some folks of the 1957 club that won 32 in a row and packed away the NCAA title. The Tar Heels have done it so far without sharpshooting Doug Moore, who won't shake scholastic ineptitude until the second semester, and 6-8 Dick Knapley, still nursing a pre-season ankle injury.

West Snared 34

West Virginia, hitting at a killing 539 pace (35 of 65) from the field, walloped Penn State 107-74 with Jerry West scoring 34 points. West, with Robertson the only returning All American, sank 12 of 19 shots from the field as the Mountaineers stretched their home court winning streak to 36.

California (3-0) had some first half trouble, but beat San Jose State 54-43.

The Bears play two home games against Colorado this weekend, meet Michigan State next week and then jump into the Los Angeles holiday festival.

That tournament, perhaps the best of the bunch, lists eight teams—with West Virginia, UCLA, Illinois, Northwestern, Southern Cal, Stanford and Michigan joining California in the Dec. 28-29, 30 showdown.

Averages 105 Points

Cincinnati, averaging 105 points for its four games after Friday's 123-79 rout of St. Joseph's (Pa.), is at Louisville Saturday, then plays Bradley before hitting the holiday festival in New York.

Pitt retained its Steel Bowl title last weekend by defeating Duquesne 75-44 with John Fridley scoring 20. St. John's (N.Y.) beat William & Mary 77-65 in the consolation game.

Oklahoma City, came from 17 points back and beat Montana State College 74-67 in overtime for the Treasure State classic title in Bozeman, Mont. Oregon whipped winless San Francisco 68-57 in the consolation game.

St. Louis handed Kentucky its second straight loss on a 21-point scoring show by Pete McCaffrey and the rebounding of 6-foot-10 Bob Nordmann. The Bills lost sub forward Rich Sanders when he suffered a broken leg under the boards.

Kansas Rebounds

Elsewhere, Kansas rebounded and defeated North Carolina State 80-58 with soph Wayne Highower scoring 25 points. Richmond upset the Citadel, never a winner on the spiders' court, 63-52 after Furman beat George Washington 76-69 in a Southern Conference double-header.

Duke, the Atlantic Coast Conference leader, defeated South Carolina 72-70. The Blue Devils play in the Birmingham classic this weekend, Georgia, trailing by nine at the half, defeated Florida 75-61 in the opener of the Southeastern Conference race.

Mississippi, with Jack Waters scoring 25, beat Arkansas for the first time in nine years, 78-63 in Little Rock. Detroit upset Purdue with its first victory ever against the Boilermakers, 84-63. Illinois beat Western Kentucky 93-80. Minnesota handed Oklahoma a first defeat 59-57.

Beat Cards Most

The Pirates had most of their success in 1959 against St. Louis, Cincinnati and Philadelphia. Against the Cardinals, the Bucs won 14 and lost only eight. And with Cincinnati and Philadelphia, they had identical 13 and nine records.

Deer fawns are devoid of any telltale scent, the better to avoid the consequences of marauding predators.

Dukes Rings Up 38 Points For Pistons

DETROIT (UPI) — Seven-foot Walter Dukes scored 38 points and grabbed a record 32 rebounds Sunday as the Detroit Pistons set an Olympia Stadium scoring record in beating the New York Knicks, 147-129.

The Pistons were never headed in 17 starts.

Rookie Bailey Howell was right behind Dukes in scoring with 30 points, while Ed Conlin had 24 and Gene Shue had 22 for the Pistons.

Richie Guerin had 28 for the Knicks, Jack George 27, and Willie Naulls 24 for New York.

New York got off to a bad start by sinking only eight of 28 shots from the floor in the first quarter. Detroit, hot from the floor all afternoon, got 32 in the first quarter and held a 65-62 lead at the half.

Dukes' 38 points were a personal high for him for the season, but Shue's 43 points in an earlier game are the high for a Piston player so far this season.

Charlie Tyra, former Louisville star, was thrown out of the game at the third quarter for slugging Dukes.

Care Will Clear
Teen Skin

When a sweet-faced sophomore suddenly sees SPOTS before her eyes... but only when she steps before a mirror... then it's time to make a few things clear about clear complexions.

"Adolescent skin" is part of normal body growth and development during the changing 'teens; the sebaceous glands that lubricate skin and hair are producing excess oil. Instead of flowing off easily, it clogs the skin.

The first approach in skin care education for young people is GOOD EXAMPLE. The first lesson should be CLEANLINESS, scrupulously maintained - both for the face and for the hands and nails that touch (but never pick at) the face.

Little girls love to imitate their mothers, so they can take their first lessons as soon as they can handle soap and water by themselves. And mothers can share, with their growing daughters, my booklet, "Secrets of Skin Care," just by writing this newspaper, enclosing 25c and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

DEAR READERS: The mail from outraged barbers continues to pour in from every one of the 50 states. (Haircuts in Alaska are $2.50). So here's more:

FROM MARTINS FERRY, Ohio: Barbering is an art and a science. Today a barber needs the digital dexterity of a brain surgeon, a repertoire of jokes like Bob Hope, the tact of Dale Carnegie and the best arch supports money can buy.

RIVERSIDE, CALIF.: Why doesn't Chicago Pop wear his hair in a braid and call it a day? Has he ever seen a barber's water bill, laundry bill, or electric bill? Does he know that good scissors cost $20 each and that shears are $45? Lotions, creams, shampoos, combs, brushes, razors and sterilizing equipment are mighty expensive. Let him try to buy a good razor strap under $25.

DETROIT: Do you know who the biggest grippers are? The ones who tried to cut their hair at home or let Mom do it! They come slinking into the shop hoping the barber can do something with the chewed up home-made haircut.

MADISON, WISC.: Chicago Pop deserves a bop on that bald head of his. The barber does more than just cut hair. He builds confidence and boosts morale. Show me the man who doesn't feel like a million bucks (and look 100% better) when he gets out of the barber chair. It's the best $2 he ever spent.

LITTLE ROCK: I live in Hardy, Arkansas, and read your column in the Arkansas Gazette. I'd like to suggest to Chicago Pop that he come down here for his haircuts. They run $1 in Hardy and are as good as any Chicago barber can give.

G. M. DEAR G. M.: A roundtrip ticket to Hardy is $86. I don't think it would pay. ANN LANDERS

1 ♠ 2 ♥ Pass Pass
What do you bid now?

A. Three spades. A bid of two spades would not be sufficiently aggressive and might indicate a mere desire to complete for the part score. Some effort should be made to move toward game and the jump bid, in view of your previous pass, is not forcing.

Q. 2-As South you hold:
AK 6 3 ♥ 4 2 ♦ AK 8 2 ♠ K Q 4
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♥ Pass

What do you bid now?

A. One spade. We sometimes stretch a point to make a jump rebid in no trump with only 18 instead of the prescribed 19 high card points. But we are not inclined to do so when it involves suppressing a good four card major. This risk in rebidding only one spade is ever so slight, for, if partner must pass, chances for game may be regarded as negligible.

The bidding has proceeded:

What do you bid now?

A. Three spades. Up until now you have sounded like a person with a very minimum opening bid and, while your values do fall within the limits of the one to trump rebid, your points are of the gift-edged variety and include an excellent fit for both of partner's suits. Game is quite probable even opposite a rather weak hand and a jump bid is necessary to convey this message to partner.

The bidding has proceeded:

What do you bid now?

A. Four clubs. The normal procedure at this point would be to announce the club fit by offering a jump raise, but that would interfere with the proper and orderly investigation for bigger things on the hand. In the interests of probing for a slam, therefore, another temporary call is in order. Partner's next call may clarify the picture considerably.

Care Will Clear Teen Skin

When a sweet-faced sophomore suddenly sees SPOTS before her eyes . . . but only when she steps before a mirror . . . then it's time to make a few things clear about clear complexions.

"Adolescent skin" is part of normal body growth and development during the changing 'teens'; the sebaceous glands that lubricate skin and hair are producing excess oil. Instead of flowing off easily, it clogs the skin.

And mothers can share, with their growing daughters, my booklet, "Secrets of Skin Care," just by writing this newspaper, enclosing 25c and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

A clean face is the prettiest, safest cosmetic for a young girl. She can pat her clean face with astringent or witch-hazel. She may use a non-oily face cream at home . . . and perhaps (with permission) a little lipstick and eye makeup when she's out in public.

But, for the time being, she should postpone foundation make-up and powder in favor of a drying skin-tinted antiseptic lotion. And she should postpone powder puffs and sponges for the sake of fresh wads of cotton.

The tinted antiseptic lotion conceals while it heals . . . an important shield for sensitive young skin. There are special cosmetic preparations, too, for the emergency masking of prominent blotches. Keep some handy, especially during this holiday party period. Somehow blemishes manage to crop up often — just when they're least wanted. You see, holiday hilarity itself provides an excellent breeding ground for blotchy skin (at any age) . . . in emotional excitement, more rich food, less sleep.

LOGANSPOUT, IND.: Ask Chicago Pop how much Chicago MOM leaves in the beauty shop every week? That ought to button his big fat lip.

1 ♠ 2 ♥ Pass Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Three spades. A bid of two spades would not be sufficiently aggressive and might indicate a mere desire to complete for the part score. Some effort should be made to move toward game and the jump bid, in view of your previous pass, is not forcing.

Q. 2—As South you hold:

AK 6 3 ♥ 4 2 ♦ AQ 8 2 ♠ K 4

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♥ Pass

1 ♦ Pass 1 ♥ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—One spade. We sometimes stretch a point to make in a jump rebid in no trump with only 12 instead of the prescribed 15 high card points. But we are not inclined to do so when it involves suppressing a good four card major. The risk in rebidding only one spade is ever so slight for, if partner must pass, chances for game may be regarded as negligible.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

AA 10 3 ♥ AQ 5 ♦ AJ 5 3 ♠ 8 6 2

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

Pass Pass 1 ♠ Pass

1 ♠ Pass 1 NT Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Three spades. Up until now you have sounded like a person with a very minimum opening bid and, while your values do fall within the limits of the one no trump rebid, your points are of the gilt-edged variety and include an excellent fit for both of partner's suits. Game is quite probable even opposite a rather weak hand and a jump bid is necessary to convey this message to partner.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

AA Q 5 3 ♥ K Q J 9 4 ♠ 8 7 6 3

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♥ Pass

2 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Four clubs. The normal procedure at this point would be to announce the club fit by offering a jump raise, but that would interfere with the proper and orderly investigation for better things on the hand. In the interests of probing for a slam, therefore, another temporary call is in order. Partner's next call may clarify the picture considerably.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

AJ ♥ AK Q J ♠ AKQ 6 5 ♠ A Q 4

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

2 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass

3 ♥ Pass 3 ♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Four clubs. The future is slightly uncertain at this stage due to the apparent lack of a fit and another bid is

Cousin Gets Ride On Locomotive

Little Janie Arnold, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel H. Arnold, Jr., Mt. Savage Road, holds on tight as she gets a ride on the live steam locomotive being operated by her cousin, Richard Arnold, 19, also of Mt. Savage Road, who constructed the locomotive with his father, Louis Arnold, and younger brother, William, 16. The steam locomotive which has a tender and flat car capable of hauling three adults runs along a miniature railroad system located in the yard of the home of Louis Arnold, who is a machinist supervisor at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant here. The three members of the family completed the project in about five years, having worked in the basement "roundhouse."

Father, Sons Construct Live Steam Locomotive

By CHARLES H. KELLY
News Staff Writer

A toy train winding its way out of a tunnel toward the peaceful village in a Christmas tree yard fascinates young and old, but a Mt. Savage Road father and his two sons went steps farther and built a scale model live steam locomotive sturdy enough to haul three adults over a miniature railroad system in the yard of their home.

Over five years ago Louis Arnold, his son Richard, now 19, and William, about 16, obtained specifications from Little Engines, a California hobby concern, and blueprints from the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company.

They studied the B&O blueprints very carefully and scaled them down one inch to the foot and modeled the locomotive after one of the railroad's 5300 Pacific type 4-6-2's (four wheel lead truck, six driving wheels and two wheel trailer truck.)

Makes First Run

After going over the detailed specifications and plans time and again, materials were purchased and things began humming in the basement workshop of the Arnold residence.

The first run was made in March this year and periodically members of the family fire up the boiler and go for a ride over about 520 feet of track including some 100 feet from a switch to the basement "roundhouse" where a caboose is now under construction.

The system is located along the outer edge of the Arnold property and the track is laid in the front and back yards. From rail to rail the track width is less than five inches.

Mr. Arnold, a machinist supervisor at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant had plenty of railroad "know how" when he began constructing the steam engine and tender. He learned his machinist trade as an employee of the old Cumberland and Pennsylvania Railroad which had shops in Mt. Savage.

He completed his time in 1939 and worked for the C&P until 1943. His father, Daniel H. Arnold Sr., Frostburg, was a conductor for the C&P and Western Maryland Railway Company and worked out of Ridgeley just before he retired. Arnold's father-in-law, the late John E. Barth, was wreck master of the C&P until the time of his death.

In their childhood days, the two Arnold brothers became fascinated with O and S gauge model trains and later showed interest in live steam locomotives.

Added kindling to the fire of enthusiasm was noted when the boys went to Canada with their dad to compare ideas with other steam club enthusiasts. While across the border they saw other scale model trains in action.

The locomotive and tender are about eight feet in length overall and about ten inches wide. The flat car is lengthy enough to accommodate two passengers comfortably.

The flat car was built by Richard, a graduate of Mt. Savage High School who is now employed at Smith Engineering at LaVale. William worked along with his father and older brother.

The "engineer" who sits on the tender, merely lifts the roof off the locomotive and has easy access to the throttle and reverse gear of the engine which will "chug" along to speeds of seven miles per hour.

A steam gauge, water glass, feed water pump, steam whistle and headlight powered by batteries must be in perfect working condition at all times.

The locomotive's copper boiler with its flue tubes is covered with a layer of asbestos and blue steel jacket which gives a sleek polished look to the engine.

Mr. Arnold said the tender is capable of holding about eight gallons of water. Two buckets of
